THOSE THAT consider preparedness and Defense Day a menace to peace, please notice this:

Jack Dempsey is prepared. If you doubt it, pull his nose. As he went through thick crowds last night everybody knew him, everybody was POLITE. Nobody slapped him or insulted him, and he didn't hit or insult anybody. HE'S PREPARED, and people let him alone. He lets them alone unless they get in the ring with him.

As it is with individuals, so with nations. When they are prepared they have peace.

THROUGH seventy-two box offices 90,000 ladies and gentlemen poured in last night to see the prize fight. No other entertainment could persuade 90,000 to pay from ten to one hundred dollars a seat to watch a white man fight a black man with padded fists.

That gathering is encouraging, because a race as able as our human race, in spite of so surviving brutality, must surely accomplish wonderful things when the interest of the average man switches from the power in a negro's gloved fist to the problems of science and civilization.

YOUNG MEN that went to the big fight, read about the fight, argued about the fight, thought and dreamed about the fight, please concentrate a minute's thought on one spectator at the fight.

You won't find it hard, for that spectator was Jack Dempsey. Observe that he travels across the continent, from California, to see that one fight. Notice also that he was attending to his principal business, as it may be necessary for him to fight the winner of last night's fight.

He was there, not to amuse himself, but to watch the fighters' methods.

If all other people in the United States paid as much attention to THEIR BUSINESS as does Jack Dempsey, there wouldn't have been such a big crowd at the fight. He is champion in HIS line, because he attends to his line.

ABOVE THE BASE at Quantico, Va., flying machines are practicing, and on the ground our honest U. S. Marines, in deep amazement, "observed that a flock of buzzards, after watching the aviators, imitated all their flying tricks in the air."

You remember the gentleman with his house on fire who gathered in his arms all the furniture he could carry, finally picking up the baby with his teeth fastened in the little dress.

As he lifted the baby he saw a cat walking across the floor holding a kitten in her mouth, and said, "Look at the wonderful imitation of that cat."

THE REV. MR. CHASE tried to have Firpo deported. Failing that, many clergymen agreed to pray all Thursday afternoon for rain on Thursday night to spoil the prize fight, held in the open air.

50 WITNESSES UNDER GUARD IN RUM PROBE

MOBILIZE DEFENSES OF U. S.

Tramp of Feet, Glitter of Steel and Music of Bands Resound All Over Land

By BERT FORD

Uncle Sam's great military rehearsal is on today.

Defense Day is being observed throughout the length and breath of the land, and New England is doing its bit with patriotic fervor.

The Autumn air rang with the shuffle of tramping feet, the tinkle of spurs, the rattle of sabres, the clatter of hoofs and martial strains as the mighty man-power of the nation mobilized.

Activities of the day spelled success of the peace mobilization, the first ever staged in the United States.

It is an emergency test of the country's fighting forces. As a balm to pacifists, who frowned upon the program, it might be mentioned that Defense Day was intended as an insurance of peace for our land.

It is a mere demonstration of preparedness. It is an experiment and not a challenge. It is a test of America's defense power and not a boast or threat. It was prompted by a desire to avoid the mistakes and confusion of the past, should occasion again arise. It is a defense rehearsal and not a gesture of aggression.

And how it rekindled memories of the mobilization on the Mexican border in 1916 and the more sinster days of 1917. But there were no heart-rending farewells or transports or trenches ahead today.

It resembled more than anything else a stock-taking by Uncle Sam and his citizens rallying to his aid.

The original plan was to have units concentrate at regular military mobilization points. The Twenty-sixth Division was to have assembled at Camp Devens in full war strength, but this meant transportation and expense and time, so the easier and swifter method was substituted of having regular army

WILLS SCORING ONLY KNOCKDOWN

The colored heavyweight met Firpo with a crashing right to the jaw as the Wild Bull came tearing in along about the middle of the second round and sent the Argentine to the canvas. The camera caught the men as the referee was waving Wills back and starting to count over the prostrate Firpo. The blow, however, was not hefty enough to keep the Argentine battler down long enough to be counted out, nor did it seriously impair the stamina of the Wild Bull who stayed for the remainder of the round and fought on for ten rounds more.

W. EDWIN ULMER VINDICATED

The complete vindication of W. Edwin Ulmer, well known Boston lawyer, of charges made against him, is shown by a hitherto unpublished memorandum filed by Assistant District Attorney Maurice Caro in nol prossing the Ulmer indictment:

"I will no further prosecute this case," says the District Attorney's memorandum. "In view of findings of fact set forth by Judge Fosdick, in allowing the defendant's motion for a new trial, it is clear that credibility of material witnesses for the Commonwealth is open to grave question.

"The fact that the court has passed on the value of the testimony

EXPERT OPINIONS ON THE BIG BOUT

Jack Conway, Boston American boxing expert, declares today that Firpo had a slight shade on Wills.

Other expert opinion was as follows:

James J. Corbett: Wills won because he was a bit stronger physically than his white rival and used that strength to maul and haul Firpo into clinches and then he clubbed him with an amateurish right hand.

Jimmy De Forest, famous trainer: Wills should have won by an even greater margin than he did. Wills not only had the better of skill but also of condition.

Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager: It was Wills after all, but it wasn't much of a glorious showing for him, was it?

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion: Wills tied up Firpo, but the big negro proved he is gone as a fighter.

Danny Sullivan, the referee: The better man won. On his form Firpo was a big disappointment and Wills showed he is ready for anything.

William F. "Pooch" Donovan, Harvard trainer: Wills won because he is a cleverer, more scientific and a faster boxer.

Alex McLean, veteran manager of champions: Firpo looked pretty good until he got into clinches, where he showed he was no match at all for the Black Panther.

Luis Angel Firpo: Although my showing against Wills was not what I hoped to make it, I am altogether confident if I can get him in the ring again I can beat him.

Harry Wills: Firpo may have dropped Dempsey, but he never had me in danger. Now bring on Dempsey.

Damon Runyon, boxing expert of Universal Service: I thought Wills won every round.

James P. Sinnott, N. Y. telegraph expert: Wills had the better of the bout from the start. It was Wills all the way.

Grantland Rice, N. Y. Herald-Tribune expert: Wills won practically every round.

Gene Fowler, N. Y. Mirror expert: Wills won almost every round.

Elmer Davis, N. Y. Times expert: Wills outboxed Firpo in every one of the twelve rounds.

WIDOW HAD $500; LEFT BIG GIFTS

Strange Will of Catherine L. Howard Is Called "Visionary" by Intimates

Long before she died, Mrs. Caroline Lathrop Howard of the Quincy House made a will. In it she provided for a home for indigent musicians and for the financing of a musicians' league.

Lawyers estimated that to carry out the terms of the will several hundred thousand dollars would be needed.

When appraisers filed a report on her estate in Suffolk Probate Court today it was revealed that the woman left only $500.

"Visionary," said close friends of Mrs. Howard, who was over seventy when she died in the Quincy House on September 7, 1923.

SEARCH FOR MORE.

Others refused to believe that the high sounding phrases of the will were meaningless and insisted that more property would be found.

The will itself was a mysterious document, containing the following unusual clauses:

"Before you embalm me try every known test to make sure I am dead.

"Leave my body exposed to the air for three whole days before you bury me.

"Then bury me beside my husband—in the same grave, that we may rest in peace.

HINTS AT MISTAKE.

"On my tombstone, write one word—Forgiven."

All that was done, and then lawyers began a search for the assets of the estate.

Mrs. Howard's husband was a brilliant musician, both teacher and composer. He died in 1917.

The reference to "forgiven," contained in her will, alluded to a disagreement between them just before his death.

The quarrel was over a business transaction, in connection with which she had failed to take him into her confidence.

When his body was lowered into the grave the widow leaned over and dropped a fluttering slip of paper on his coffin. On it was written the information she had failed to give him while he was alive.

How to Decide Bets on Outcome of Big Bout

The question of deciding bets on the outcome of the Wills-Firpo bout is the one big problem with the fight fans today.

The system used in all such no-decision bouts, where the verdict is left to the fight experts, is as follows:

When the bet is made the parties agree to take the decision of a certain newspaper or expert and his word is final. When no selection of a newspaper is made and the experts disagree on the verdict, as is the case of the battle last night, all bets are off.

2 INJURED IN SOUTH BOSTON AUTO CRASH

A woman and a man were injured today when a touring car struck and upset a heavy furniture truck on Dorchester street near St. Augustine's Church.

They are Anna Neil, No. 44 Vinton street, South Boston, who is at the Carney Hospital with a broken collar bone, possible internal injuries and concussion of the brain, and William Wilson, No. 240 Dorchester street, South Boston, whose left hand was lacerated.

The driver of the touring car gave his name as James Sullivan, No. 1 Austin avenue. He was arrested charged with drunkenness and failure to have a license or registration.

The two injured were in the truck. They were dragged out of the wrecked cab by Officer Michael Carter. Leo J. Steinberg, No. 266 Broadway, South Boston, driver, was uninjured.

SMUGGLING BARED BY WOMAN

Scandal Involves Prominent Men; Centres in Salisbury and Plum Island

With more than half a hundred witnesses under guard in a room a far-reaching investigation of a liquor smuggling scandal of staggering proportions was begun by the Federal grand jury today.

Charges of corruption in high places were made, and it was said that flagrant records of many officials would be laid bare.

The scene of the inquiry is said to extend from Newburyport and Plum Island to Salisbury and Seabrook, N. H., and may include Boston.

The first principal witnesses to be called were [illegible], a Salisbury selectman, on which Chief of Police Harold J. Congdon is also a member; Arthur [illegible], alias "The Jap," Miss Mary Andrews, Newburyport telephone operator, and Mrs. Harry Nichols of Salisbury, in whose cellar liquor was said to have been stored.

WOMAN STARTED IT.

The probe is based on an investigation made early this year, inspired by the complaint of a woman, and which was later pigeonholed.

A feature which complicates the situation is said to be the fact that this woman's affidavit is now mysteriously missing from the files of the Department of Justice.

Evidence in the case was presented to the jury by Assistant U. S. Attorney Joseph V. Carroll.

It is said that liquor in large quantities has been run into the Merrimack River, on the north side of which is Black Rocks, Salisbury, with Plum Island on the south.

The investigation made last Spring revealed that the running of contra-

AUTO CRASHES INTO TRUCK, TWO MEN HURT

Harry Shulman and Samuel Finegold, of [illegible], were seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding, operated by Paul Chernow, of Providence, tried to pass between two automobile trucks in East Dedham. The men were picked up by pedestrians and taken to the East Dedham Emergency Hospital. Both men were cut about the head and face. One of the trucks is owned by Knowlton & Holmes and was operated by Guy Gilbert.

PERSHING, RETIRING, DESERVES REWARD BY NATION

Every generation of Americans has had a war.

And every war, until the present one, has given us a President.

The Revolutionary War gave us President Washington. The war of 1812 gave us President Jackson. The Mexican war gave us President Zachary Taylor. The Civil War gave us President Grant. The Spanish-American War gave us President Roosevelt.

The World War of 1914-18, the greatest of all, has given us no President. Its real but unrewarded hero is General John J. Pershing, a plain, blunt soldier, who tomorrow will retire to private life.

General Pershing will retire almost six years from the September day when he launched that flaming attack at St. Mihiel and set the American army on a forward march which knew no halt until Germany laid down her arms. General Mangin, the French commander, estimated that it was possible for the American attacking force to reach its St. Mihiel objective in five days. General Pershing was there on the evening of the third day.

That September and October advance of the American Expeditionary Force was the logical and inevitable outcome of the preparation that Pershing had made. He had the military genius to conceive and build a four-track railway across France, that the American army might operate as a unit from an American-run base in France. He organized a division of supplies that functioned like clockwork, and, in spite of its magnitude, was wholly free from the scandals that disgraced the Spanish-American War. He built a sure foundation for the crowning military achievement on the west front.

It is impossible to compare the military achievement of Pershing and his predecessors in American military history, for there is no basis of comparison—his was so incomparably the greatest of all enterprises. The American troops commanded by Washington when Cornwallis surrendered were fewer than nine thousand in number. The total number of northern troops in all the Civil War, under the successive commands of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, was only two million. There were fewer than two hundred thousand American troops engaged in the Spanish-American War. Pershing had under him 3,700,000 men when he ended the conflict in 1918.

Roosevelt was a great and inspiring leader. But if he holds a high place in military history for his exploit of riding up Kettle Hill, what should be the place of the military genius who organized America's World War effort and won the World War?

General Pershing is not the stuff of which Presidents are made. He has no political genius; he knows nothing of the twists and turns and compromises by which political advancement is effected.

He is not a talker. He will converse with you an hour and never once use the pronoun "I." He is incapable of "blowing his own horn."

It is precisely because he had none of these qualities that he did the job entrusted to him. Stern, straightforward discipline and strict military methods may not be popular, but coupled with able leadership they win wars, and Pershing's business was to win the war. The intelligent unbiased opinion of the world acknowledges it. The American people, if they are grateful for past services, or even prayerful to Providence for future services, should recognize and reward the man who contributed so much to their glory and their safety.

Tomorrow General Pershing, at the age of 64, is automatically retired from active service, and his income from the government cut nearly in half.

A noted Englishman recently said:

"The American people have neglected General Pershing outrageously. Field Marshal Haig has been created an Earl, which ennobles his family now and in the future, and has been given more than a million dollars by the government and the people of Great Britain.

"Other foreign nations likewise have honored and remunerated their army chiefs.

"The United States, the richest country in the world, should in the proper way acknowledge service rendered by the individual who contributed the greatest single effort toward winning the World War."

The fact that "republics are ungrateful" simply means that the public seldom has the wisdom to look forward to a future service by adequately recognizing service already rendered. Apart from the justice of recognizing public service is the wisdom of doing it. Gratitude, like honesty, is the best policy. The people should not forget their able, loyal servants.

When Congress meets in December it should make provision for adequate, generous financial reward to General Pershing as a token of national appreciation of his services.

Defense Day

Tomorrow will be the sixth anniversary of the Battle of St. Mihiel; it will also be National Defense Day.

It is pleasant to know that most of the opposition to the purpose of the day has been silenced.

Governor Bryan of Nebraska termed the test mobilization which is the most important feature of the day's activities "a militaristic gesture." As well say that test fire drills have a tendency to invite fires.

President Coolidge, Secretary Weeks, General Pershing and others have ably defended the mobilization as a frank and open demonstration of necessary measures of national defense.

Briefly, the government plans a turnout of the regular army, the National Guard, the organized reserves and other male citizens of military age who wish to take a part.

National Guard units will be mobilized in their armories. For some of them, it will be the regular weekly meeting, little different from the others.

Reservists will report at places set forth in their orders. Probably those who would be seriously inconvenienced by reporting in person will be permitted to report by telephone.

In Boston, at night, there will be a demonstration on the Common, with reservists, guardsmen and regulars out.

Simply a test of the speed with which America COULD be organized for defense, and a series of meetings to stimulate public manifestations of loyalty and practical patriotism.

Both purposes are worthy ones. Boston should do its bit to make National Defense Day all the patriots who planned it meant it should be.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

NOW I know what the real estate advertisements mean when they command, "Own your OWN Home!" I've bought a house—at last!

Helen Rowland

Every day it opens its insatiable maw and calls for a different meal. One day you feed it a furnace, and the next kalsomine; the next, a few tons of coal; the next, rugs and linens and garden seed, and so on, ad infinitum.

* * *

Next to possessing a new husband or a new baby, owning a house is the most wonderful and thrilling thing in the world!

* * *

For a whole month you live in the sweet and ecstatic delusion that you do "own it"—and then you discover that it owns YOU.

Every day it swallows a week's income—and comes up smiling!

And yet, you LOVE it!

You trip up and down the stairs with your heart singing, "Mine, mine, mine!" You run your hand tenderly along its window ledges and pat its porch pillars with that sweet, delicious feeling of possessionship that makes your spine tingle and your throat ache.

With the passionate devotion of a mother for a child you are joyfully ready to sacrifice anything in the world for it!

If it wants a new coat of paint or a new hat of shingles, you cheerfully plan to do without that fur coat this season. If it demands a new cellar floor, you say, "Baby needs shoes!" and decide to give up your trip to the Riviera so that it may have its heart's desire.

Whatever it cries for or even hints at it GETS! For a house isn't a bit like a husband. You can't argue with it, or pout at it, or wheedle it, or browbeat it.

It is as tyrannical as a spoiled baby. You watch it and tend it and feed it and dress it. Every time you plant a flower-bed you feel as though you were tying ribbons on its hair. Putting up a new curtain is as much a joy as though you were arraying it in new rompers.

* * *

Oh, yes, owning a house is good for the soul!

It strengthens the will and teaches you self-discipline.

It develops your powers of self-restraint, and inspires you to self-sacrifice.

It cultivates your eye for beauty—and teaches you to be economical.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHEN Autumn's pomp and glory deck all the woodland ways, when hills lift softened outlines through misty mellow haze, I love to tread the pathway her gilded feet have trod where, over hill and valley, she drops the goldenrod. September's softest breezes are fain to linger there as though no fabled island could boast of charms as fair; for Autumn walks, majestic, in gold and crimson shod where slanting sunlight shimmers on fields of goldenrod. The soft mists crown the mountain, the trees in scarlet glow, and slender grasses whisper to sleepy brooks below. A mystic spark of beauty imbues each senseless clod; but Nature's tenderest touches are on the goldenrod. Oh, leave the gold of cities men long have held too dear and seek the woodland places, the birds' songs, sweet and clear! Seek out the tranquil sweetness of emerald leaf and sod, the priceless gold that glimmers upon the goldenrod. In Winter, Earth is shining hrough veils of fairy lace as fragile as the meshes across a fair bride's face. In Spring the tender beauty of budding life peeps through, the daffodils are dancing, the sky is softly blue. In Summer's ardent glory the harvest fields are fair, the fragrance of the flowers is heavy on the air. But Autumn walks, triumphant in golden slippers shod and leaves her shining footprints upon the goldenrod.

Helpless Old Man

Helping Hand Editor:

I am asking you for a little assistance for an old man who has just lost everything, home, clothes and means to make a living, caused by a bolt of lightning striking his house and burning it to the ground. This man is absolutely alone and is in need now of everything, but most especially bedding. If any of your readers could help him, it would be a big blessing.

A. G. M.

Home for Girl

Helping Hand Editor:

I would give a girl, sixteen or over, a good home where she would be treated as one of the family and given some wages. I would like to get one who needs a home.

Mrs. Wm. J. M.

Needs Sewing Machine

Helping Hand Editor:

If you can get me a sewing machine, blankets or clothes for myself, size 18, 4 shoe, I would appreciate it. I have three children, girl six, boy four and baby one year, and expect the stork again. My husband is only working three days a week and paying bills out of that.

M. A. C.

Sending Addresses

Helping Hand Editor:

Have some baby clothes that my baby has outgrown. Have shirts, bands, stockings, dresses, etc. Also have a box of patch work pieces, silk and velvet. Will send parcel post to any address. Wish I could afford to do lots more.

Mrs. C. E. V.

Thank you. Every little bit helps, you know. Mrs. W. F., mother of three small tots, expecting a visit from the stork, will much appreciate the baby clothes and Mrs. N. G. will be delighted with the patch work pieces. We are sending you their addresses.

Mother Asks Work

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband is only working three days a week and I am just starting to get in debt. I am only twenty-five years old and have four children. Their ages are from one to eight years. If I could only get some work to do mornings where I could bring my baby, I would be more than thankful. I can do any kind of housework, including baking and can keep books.

H. M. R.

Timely Assistance

Helping Hand Editor:

I have some clothes for boys of five and seven years and girl's dresses size 8. Also have a few things for a woman size 38 and sweaters for a man same size. Please tell me where to send these.

J. G. S.

Many thanks. Mrs. M. T. S., mother of a large family, can make excellent use of all this clothing. We are sending you her address.

Shoes and Stockings

Helping Hand Editor:

I have three children, two girls, eighteen months and four years, and one boy, three, but who takes a five year size. They are sadly in need of shoes. I would also like some stockings for them. I expect the stork soon and haven't a stitch of clothing for the baby. My husband is in the hospital and I get a little help from the city.

Mrs. K. G. I.

Appreciates Help

Helping Hand Editor:

I received a basket of girl's clothes from some kind reader. There wasn't any address on it, so I ask that you thank her through your column.

NATURE IN NO HURRY ONLY MAN RUSHES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN we speak of Nature we do not speak of what we can see, but of something behind that which we see.

Nature is in no hurry. It is only mankind that hurries.

There are many things very beautiful in Nature, but many things grotesque, such as the monsters of the sea.

When painters reproduce a little bit of Nature they are highly gratified, yet Nature paints the most superb pictures constantly, whether there are those to see them or not.

All that lives comes from Nature. She seems to be rhythmic as to her lives. She produces plants in their season, and men in their generations, but the race continues.

Very little first-class literature has been written under the direct inspiration of Nature. Nature is usually too strong for the writers.

It is characteristic of Nature that it goes on while life stops. Nature has her ebb and flow, but it is eternal. It was here before we arrived; it will be here when we have gone.

There is nothing moral or immoral in Nature. She has her own morality.

There is infinite variety in Nature, and yet the strictest adherence to law.

There is abundance, generosity and waste in Nature, yet there is no waste. The leaves of the tree return to soil from which they came. Whatever Nature produces may fail in its object, but it succeeds in some other object.

Nature produces nothing that is alive and also straight. Her sign manual is the curved line for living things. Among dead things I do not know of anything straight which Nature produces except quartz.

Nature is discordant and minor; and yet those who are accustomed to listen to her know that she is deeply musical.

The most beautiful objects of Nature depend upon water, for it is water that makes the clouds, the colors of the sunset and of the sea.

All obey Nature, yet is she not masterful or petulant?

Two of the greatest men who ever lived have had for their motto, "Return to Nature." One was the Frenchman, Rousseau, and the other was the Chinaman, Lao Tzu.

Lao Tzu said:

"The highest goodness is like water, for water is excellent and benefiting all things, yet it does not strive. It occupies the lowest place which men abhor."

We do not understand Nature because we do not understand water.

Lao Tzu says again:

"There is something chaotic, yet complete, which existed before heaven and earth. It stands alone without change, reaching everywhere without suffering harm. It must be regarded as the mother of the universe. Its name I do not know. Endeavoring to describe it I call it Great."

PALPITATIONS OF THE CELLS IN TREES

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE researches and speculations of the Hindoo botanist, Sir J. C. Bose, on the nature of the life of plants, as compared with that of animals, are very interesting through the strange thoughts that they suggest to the reader. Lately he has been experimenting on the curious phenomenon of "palpitations" of the cells in trees, which resembles the beating of the heart in animals.

He has invented delicate apparatus which mechanically records the palpitations, and he supposes that this phenomenon may be associated with the ascent of sap to elevations too great to be accounted for by capillary attraction.

His present researches are in extension of those whose results were received with both surprise and skepticism some years ago. He then showed that a plant responds to sudden disturbances and shocks, and to the effects of poisons, in a manner strikingly like that observed in animals under similar circumstances.

When the vitality of a plant suffers a violent shock the individual sometimes appears to fall into a faint. Something analogous to a nervous system seems to give the plant a sensitiveness resembling that usually assumed to be possessed only by the animal organism.

It is no new discovery that vegetative and animal life approach so closely to each other in their simplest and most primitive forms that no positive marks of difference can be detected. They seem to have started from a single life root, but to have become differentiated while following each its own line of evolution. And in their specialized and more complicated forms they diverge so widely that it once seemed quite natural to regard them as representing essentially different kingdoms of life.

A tree and an elephant, or a fly and a blade of grass, certainly show no appearance of kinship and trusting to ordinary means of investigation, one would never conceive the least inkling of the idea that such diametrical opposites had a common origin. Yet that idea is not difficult to grasp when once the fundamental conception of evolution is understood. And this conception is the fruit not of a prior speculation, but of direct observation. It is, perhaps, the most splendid product of Bacon's system of scientific investigation.

No one who has studied the evidence accumulated in later times can refuse for a moment to accept Professor Leclerc's statement that: "The two kingdoms, animal and vegetable though distinct in their upper (more advanced specialized) parts, unite at their base, where it is impossible to establish any but an arbitrary line of demarkation between them."

The trouble of the separatists becomes unbearable when they go back to the forms of life which are summed up in single cells, and it has been proposed to escape from the predicament by inventing a third life kingdom, that of the "Protists," to include all organisms formed of a single cell. But this is only forcing another noun into the already unmemorizable pages of the dictionaries of science.

Besides, it now appears from such researches as those of Bose, that it is unnecessary to go back to the most primitive forms of life in order to find an essential resemblance between animals and plants. "The more the physiology of the plants is studied the less pronounced become the differences which would seem to set the life of these creatures in opposition to that of the animals."

In ancient thought, whether philosophical or religious, we often find surprising forecasts of modern scientific ideas, and something of that kind may be seen in the old legends and traditions which ascribed semi-conscious life to trees and other forms of vegetation.

ONCE-OVERS

Do Not Shut Your Eyes to a Wrong Because of Fear of Giving Offense

To have knowledge of a wrong and do nothing to stop it is as criminal as committing the wrong personally.

If you know that a force is active among the "very best people in town" and it is teaching your child to be a "crook," are you going to keep still and let it go on?

Do you think first about whom you would offend by your opposition?

Or have you sense enough to realize that association in the most exclusive circles cannot make your child honest if his heart is black?

Any person, club or society which teaches that because you have been "stung" you should go out and do likewise to another so as to get back what you lost by allowing yourself to be roped in, is as criminal in intent and purpose as the highwayman who makes his living by being a thug.

If the fear of being unpopular deters you from taking a stand squarely against such methods, you are a poor stick of a man, woman, girl or boy.

If you have young folks under your care and you do not take a stand and show your disapproval of such unprincipled conduct because you fear the displeasure of your young charges, you do not deserve the confidence of the parents.

WHOLE NATION RESPONDS TO CALL OF DEFENSE DAY

units, National Guard, and the reserve mobilize at their home stations.

The nationwide peace muster to the colors was marked in cities, villages and hamlets of New England by patriotic meetings in churches and historic halls, in schools where Grand Army veterans joined World War veterans in addressing the children; by parades, open air meetings, banquets and fireworks.

Communities vied with each other in the roll call of men of fighting age and in the pep of the programs put on for the occasion.

BOSTON PARADE AND REVIEW.

The major feature in Boston's Defense Day program is the military parade and review to take place on Boston Common at 7 o'clock this evening, rain or shine.

Regular, National Guard and reserve units will take part. The regulars will be commanded by Maj.-Gen. A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area. Brig.-Gen. Richard K. Hale will command the National Guard units.

Major General Edward L. Logan, commander of the Twenty-sixth Division, as chairman of the State and city Defense Day committees, issued assembly and parade orders, stipulating that all organizations be in position on Boston Common at 6 p. m.

MAKE-UP OF PARADE.

The units that will take part in the review on Boston Common will be the Thirteenth U. S. Infantry, Colonel Leonard; a battalion of bluejackets from the U. S. Navy, assigned by Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steigeur, who has done everything possible from a naval standpoint to make the demonstration a success; special troops from the Twenty-sixth Division, commanded by Major Roland H. Choate; a provisional brigade commanded by Brigadier General Alfred E. Foote; provisional brigade of Coast Artillery, consisting of Two Hundred and Forty-first C. A. C., M. N. G., and the Two Hundred and Twenty-first Machine Gun Battalion, A. C. A. C., under command of Colonel B. B. Shedd; provisional brigade under command of Colonel E. F. Fish, F. A., and a detachment of Officers' Reserve Corps and the C. M. T. C.

Every organization and community will report the mobilization figures to the army authorities. Figures will be announced later by the Army.

COMPLETE CHECK UP.

The Massachusetts National Guard will make five reports to Brigadier-General Jesse F. Stevens, adjutant-general of Massachusetts: one from Major-General Logan, commander of the 26th Division; one from Colonel B. B. Shedd, commander of the 201st Artillery; one from Captain D. T. Gallup, commanding the 110th Cavalry; one from Major L. F. Hewitt, commander 2nd Separate Battalion and one from Colonel Horace Z. Landon, as commander of the 211th Artillery.

Major General Edw. L. Logan

Rear Admiral Louis S. de Steigeur

Adjutant General Stevens will consolidate these five reports and forward them to Major-General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area. Adjutant Generals in other states will do likewise and Army headquarters will forward National Guard and Reserve reports to the War Department, along with reports on the muster of regular army units in their respective areas.

CO-OPERATION OF NAVY.

It is expected that civilian mobilization reports will be more or less inaccurate, but the adjutant generals of each state has requested as correct reports as locaal chairmen can submit.

Although the Navy has had its own Defense Day for the past two years on the anniversary of the birthday of the late Theodore Roosevelt, Oct. 27, it is co-operating in the Army Defense Day program.

American Legion post commanders are expected to report mobilization figures in their communities in the absence of National Guard units. In the 125 towns where there are neither National Guard units or legion posts, senior selectmen are in charge of reports to the Army.

PRESIDENT IS PLEASED.

President Coolidge gave a ringing endorsement of Defense Day.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks said:

"The Defense Day test should inform the public of the plans and methods by which American armies will be raised in the event of any national emergency."

General John J. Pershing said:

"The test will be a tryout of our small regular forces and the National Guard. More especially it will show the preliminary steps required for the prompt utilization of our large reserve force of patriotic citizens.

"We hope by this defense test to impress upon the individual officer and soldier his particular function if war comes. We never before have undertaken such a step in instruction, and in the last emergency we found ourselves in a very serious dilemma.

"All this has for its purpose the demonstration to the American people that it is necessary to have some preliminary organization in order to avoid the danger of delay if war comes."

The Army Base at South Boston has been the center of Defense Day preparations in New England for weeks. Colonel George S. Goodale and his associates worked hard in exploiting the novel event.

The spectacle tonight on Boston Common will be enhanced by the turning out of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, which, Colonel Henry D. Comerais, commander, will escort Governor Cox, who will be a guest of honor at the Common exercises, as will be Mayor Curley. The Ancients will leave their armory in Faneuil Hall at 6. They will be headed by a band.

Armories, town halls and other public assembly points hummed today. Old Glory was displayed on public and private buildings and dwellings throughout New England.

NOON MASS MEETING.

General Charles H. Cole, who commanded a brigade of infantry in the Yankee Division overseas, will preside at a mass meeting in Old South Meeting House at noon. Addresses will be made by Major-General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area; Major-General C. R. Edwards, retired; Brigadier-General Charles Cole, Admiral de Steiguer, Governor Cox, Mayor Curley and James T. Williams of Boston.

Colonel John W. Hyatt

Adjut. General Jesse F. Stevens

Major Judson Hannigan, Captain Louis Morse, Captain Fletcher Wason and Lieutenant Jonathan French will be in charge of the details at Old South meeting.

The detail in charge of guests are: Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Rand, Captain Fletcher Wason, Captain Patrick Healey and Lieutenant Earl Dudley.

LEGION DOES ITS PART.

Special exercises were held in the schools and throughout the city. The American Legion posts are taking a prominent part in the day's activities. The Rev. George Lawson, who served as chaplain overseas, as president of "The Fighting Parsons' Club" of Massachusetts more than made up for the apathy of some of the more pacific members of the clergy.

OFFICERS IN CHARGE.

The officers who are directing Defense Day for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts are Colonel John W. Hyatt, chief of staff for General Logan; Colonel George S. Goodale, in charge of Defense Day preparations at First Corps Area headquarters; Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steigeur, commandant at Boston Navy Yard; Major-General Edward L. Logan, commanding 26th Division and chairman of State and City Defense Committees; Lieutenant Colonel Horace Z. Landon, commander First Corps Cadets; Richard F. Paul, Third Vice Commander American Legion; Major L. F. Hewitt, commander Second Separate Battalion; Captain D. T. Gallup, commanding 110th Cavalry M. N. G., Colonel Frederick A. Washburn, commander Military Order of the World War and Brigadier-General Jesse F. Stevens, adjutant-general for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

CAMBRIDGE CELEBRATES.

Cambridge has a parade of military and patriotic organizations, a review of the National Guard, a patriotic meeting addressed by Colonel Willing and community singing led by Mayor Quinn.

Newton has a parade and defence talks. Winthrop, a parade made up of regulars from the harbor forts, American Legion, police and fire departments, Masons, Knights of Columbus, Elks and Improvement Association. The selectmen headed the column.

Belmont had appropriate observances. Braintree arranged a parade and mass meeting. New Bedford is to have a parade and patriotic meetings.

Plymouth will have a parade and a patriotic meeting near Plymouth Rock.

IN OTHER PLACES.

There will be parades and band concerts in Haverhill, Amherst and Fall River. Lawrence will stage a big evening parade. Naval ships will will aid Lynn's demonstration.

All males between eighteen and forty-five will be mustered in Franklin. Lowell has arraanged a snappy program.

The mills are going to close in South Manchester, Ct. Twenty organizations will be represented in the parade.

MASTER MIND DIRECTING GEM THEFTS IN NEW ENGLAND HOMES

ROBBERIES CRAFTILY EXECUTED BY SKILLED BURGLARS

Banded together, it is believed, under the captaincy of one of the smartest criminals in the East, jewel thieves are making a concerted drive on New England centres of wealth and refinement.

Such is the conviction forced inward upon the police by the robbery of $5,000 worth of gems from Blithewold, the Bristol, R. I., Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William L. McKee, well known in Boston society.

Mr. McKee is a shoe manufacturer and his wife is active in social and charitable affairs.

FINE PEARLS STOLEN.

The McKee robbery is the latest in a series of jewelry robberies and thefts characterized by extreme daring and much professional skill.

Not long ago the Summer home of E. C. Crossett at Osterville was burglarized and pearls and diamonds worth $100,000 were stolen. Crossett is a Chicago millionaire.

Oliver Ricketson's home at Ricketsons' Point, South Dartmouth, was entered less than a week ago, and stones valued at $8,000 were taken.

At York Village, Me., an ingenious burglar climbed a tree to enter a second story window in the home of Mrs. George L. Sargent and steal gems worth $15,000.

In Trinity court, Back Bay, $10,000 worth of jewelry was stolen from the automobile of Kinley Tener, nephew of John Tener, former Governor of Pennsylvania.

OVER $1,000,000 STOLEN.

As a result of the epidemic of jewel thefts, scores of private guards have been installed in homes on the North and South shores.

Police of Boston are convinced that the gang of thieves not only is thoroughly organized, but that the master mind in the corporation is a gem thief of international experience.

In the last few months stones worth well over $1,000,000 have been collected by the looters, and so far no clew of any value has been left behind.

$25,000,000 Profits for Van Sweringens in Rail Merger

New York, Sept. 12.—C. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, who in 1916 began backing their idea of railway consolidation with wide experience in real estate dealing and $2,000,000 in cash, today have a potential profit of at least $25,000,000 in profits.

This rise in their fortunes, according to the experts, depends upon the successful culmination of the proposed merger of the Erie, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley lines. The boards of directors of all these lines have recommended that stockholders ratify the merger.

TINNEY'S PUNCH MAY COST HIM $40,000

Comedian's Wife Asks $750 Weekly as Result of Imogene's Charge

New York, Sept. 12.—Frank Tinney shortly may become known as the actor with the $40,000 punch.

When Tinney let drive a right hook to the beautiful Imogene Wilson's lustrous left eye, he didn't realize he was putting over one of the highest price punches in history.

But such is likely to prove the case.

As an upshot of Frank's fracas with the Follies beauty, Mrs. Tinney has stepped into the picture. She has asked the court that Frank be directed to pay her $750 a week.

Mrs. Tinney, who is suing in the courts of Long Island City for separate maintenance, also asks that her actor husband be forced to disgorge $5,000 for her counsel fees. Tinney is now in England.

PERSHING BIDS FAREWELL TO ARMY

Nation Has Learned Lesson of Service Since War, He Says

Washington, Sept. 12. — General John J. Pershing, on the eve of his retirement after forty-two years of active service, issued the following farewell to the Army:

"To participate in ceremonies attendant upon the retirement of officers and enlisted men, as I have done numberless times, gives one no adequate idea of his feelings when his own turn comes. But even in severing an association that has lasted as long as mine, there are some compensations.

"The old regular army was the equal of any similar in the world. Its officers were hard working, conscientious and efficient; the men well trained, without fear and possessed of a splendid spirit of loyalty and pride in the service.

"But the great war which put so many of our young men into their country's service, awakened in patriotic breasts a feeling for the army, an interest in it and an understanding of its real aims and purposes.

"The history of the nation's military forces, too, has come in for its share of attention, and the popular mind has become disabused of the idea that fighting alone is the occupation of the soldier, and the great contribution of the army to the development and progress of the United States recognized and appreciated.

"In turn, the army's attitude towards its job has changed since the war. Service in peace or war has become the goal of its training, whether it be blazing an air route around the world, or lending trucks and men to help a harassed and Christmas package smothered postmaster. Each man in the army should feel capable of expanding his usefulness, and if necessary, becoming the instructor of an indefinite number of untrained men. That is the end eminently to be desired in all the activities of the army in times of peace.

"On Defense Day, September 12, the date which marks my retirement, I shall have another consolation, one that will mitigate the thought of parting, through the realization that the country has not allowed the lessons that cost so dearly in the World War to be forgotten. With no malice, but with forethought that marks the wise man, we shall, I hope, look at ourselves in time of fair weather to see how we might fare in a storm.

Coolidge to Send Letter With Pershing's Retirement

Washington, Sept. 12.—General Pershing will be retired from active service tonight at midnight by orders issued and signed personally by President Coolidge, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States.

The order, issued only in cases of retirement of military officers who held the rank of full general, will take the form of a general announcement to the army that General Pershing has passed to the retired list.

It is probable that the order will be accompanied by a personal letter from President Coolidge recounting the general's services to the Nation.

Hundreds of reserve officers, many in uniform, for the first time since they were mustered out of the service, took the opportunity to bid farewell to General Pershing.

A former Cabinet officer and two Episcopal bishops were in the line of uniformed reserve officers which passed by to shake his hand.

They were Lieutenant-Colonel Will H. Hays, former Postmaster-General, and Bishop Freeman of the Washington diocese, and Bishop Brent of New York State, formerly chief chaplain of the A. E. F.

COOLIDGE IS EXPECTED TO SPEAK IN MID-WEST

Washington, Sept. 12.—President Coolidge is expected by some of his advisers to accept a few of the many invitations he has received recently to speak in the Middle West. Among the scores of invitations which have been extended to the President by various organizations are included requests for him to speak in Chicago, St. Paul and cities farther west. Mr. Coolidge also is understood to be giving careful consideration to the invitation to speak in Philadelphia on September 25.

STANDARD CUTS GAS TO 15.8 CENTS IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 12.—Gasoline prices were reduced three cents a gallon to 15.8 cents at all Standard Oil Company filling stations here today as a result of an order from the general offices of the Standard Oil of Indiana at Chicago.

Independent Oil companies indicated that their stations would follow the cut made by the Standard.

MABEL NORMAND IS NAMED IN DIVORCE

MABEL NORMAND

Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—"Mabel Normand" has been named in a divorce suit instituted by Mrs. George Church, wife of Norman Church, local millionaire.

The wife charges that while her husband was a patient in a hospital Mabel Norman was a patient in the same institution and that Miss Normand visited her husband.

The hospital named is one in which Miss Normand, the actress, has been a patient on several occasions.

WARN WAYSIDE MARKETS OF GOUGING

State Department of Agriculture Points Out Danger of Ruining Their Business

Farmers with roadside markets were warned today by the division of markets of the State Department of Agriculture not to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

"It's a mistake to assume that transients are glad to buy any grade of produce direct from the farm at higher prices than are being charged at the stores," the division cautions them. "They might buy once, but not again."

"A few years ago the only evidence of a willingness on the part of the farmer to deal directly with the consumer was found in the occasional 'For Sale' signs on the roadways, usually offering fresh eggs.

"The increasing use of the automobile and improved roads changed the opportunities available to the small farmer and offered new methods of marketing to the large growers.

"Roadside selling has prompted growers to cultivate new products and instances are common where farmers now keep bees, poultry and small fruits simply because they have found a way to dispose of small lots without a trip to market that often counterbalances the value of the returns."

The division is anxious to promote the business of wayside marketing for the farmer's sake as well as for the benefit of the buying public. It is convinced that they are an economical asset to the State providing as they do the elimination of transportation and distribution charges.

SPEEDING TAXI INJURED BOY, IS BELIEF

Four-Year-Old Picked Up on Brighton Street, Bleeding and Unconscious

A taxicab knocked down and seriously injured Edward Barber, four years old, of No. 11 Waverly street place, North Brighton, in the opinion of his mother, who has made an effort to find out who injured her little son and failed to stop to aid him.

The boy was found bleeding and unconscious on Western avenue, where he had gone to buy candy.

A little girl living opposite the spot has reported to the police that she saw a taxicab speeding by a few minutes before occupants of another car found the boy in the car tracks.

At St. Elizabeth's Hospital physicians are yet unable to say whether he will live. Efforts are being made to check up on taxi-drivers, investigators working on the theory it was a Cambridge or Brighton cab.

SOUTH BOSTON GIRL HURT IN AUTO CRASH; SEEK MAN

Miss May Burke of No. 41 Vinton street, South Boston, was injured today when an automobile in which she was riding crashed into a telegraph pole at Maple and Lowell streets in Lexington. Police say the machine was misappropriated by a man known as Norman Rogers of No. 29 Armory street, Cambridge and a warrant for his arrest was issued. He is charged with intoxication, and operating without a license. He made a brisk getaway, leaving Miss Burke to make the explanation.

U. S. Labor Report Shows Greater Employment

Washington, Sept. 12.—General improvement in the employment situation in the Middle West and gains in various lines of industry in nearly every section of the country are disclosed in a national employment survey made public by the Labor Department.

Better farming conditions, with improvements in the building industry in the West and Middle West, were accountable for much of the increased employment there, while in the New England States, improvement was noted generally in the shoe industry.

It would have been more dramatic, remembering how the lightning came down from heaven to start the fire, had the clergymen prayed for lightning, at the beginning of round one, to smite the guilty Firpo who brought a young lady to the United States with him, and spare the virtuous colored American, Wills.

BISHOP FAN S. NOLI, Premier of Albania, spoiling the sweet spirit that floats over the League of Nations at Geneva, speaks of the Dawes reparations scheme as "a tortuous, complicated, diabolical, international combination of bubbles" and "the most colossal superbubble modern history has produced."

Nevertheless, the scheme is to be tried. History will tell whether General Dawes or the Premier of Albania was the wiser.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD go to the penitentiary, protected by armed deputies. The young men are well cared for. After sentence had been passed upon them they ordered "steak two inches thick, with all the side dishes that go with it."

Imprisonment for life for murder, plus 99 years for kidnaping, had not destroyed their appetite.

DAVID LAWRENCE says President Coolidge will keep foreign affairs out of this campaign, being convinced that "you cannot get voters excited over European politics."

You can't, unless, as in 1920, you get them excited about a suggestion that this country join the League of Nations and make itself paymaster and errand boy for other countries.

The voters got excited about that, as Mr. Cox discovered, when Harding went in with 7,000,000 votes to spare.

BOYS LUNATICS IN FIVE YEARS, SAYS DARROW

Time Will Soon Show Judge Caverly Was Right, He Predicts

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 12.—Insanity yet will overtake Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb and the country will know that Judge John R. Caverly was right, Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, declared today. Mr. Darrow is at the summer home of Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard, here.

"In five years the whole country will know that Caverly was right," he said, speaking of Leopold. "It will take a bit longer for Dick Loeb, perhaps, but it'll come."

Clanging Gong Calls Two Slayers From Their Cells

Joliet, Ills., Sept. 12.—The strident ringing of a brazen gong rang through court solitary at 6 a. m. today. It was a summons to convicts 9305 and 9306—Richard A. Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., slayers of Bobby Franks—that the shackles had begun to bind.

Loeb and Leopold, known now respectively as 9305 and 9306, did not breakfast in the main dining hall. Following the usual custom, they were fed in the cells by fellow convicts who stared curiously at the newcomers in their prison clothes.

The pair were alert and eager to take their first steps through the routine that starts them on their program for the years that remain to them. It appeared that today's Defense Day program in the jail, however, would interfere with their desires.

The last thrill before the prison walls of Joliet closed about them, perhaps forever, probably the only thrill that Loeb and Leopold experienced since the killing of little Bobby Franks, was realized last night by the youthful slayers when their lives were almost snuffed out in the mad race for the prison.

SAVED FROM DEATH.

Only quick work on the part of newspapermen and deputy sheriffs accompanying the murderers, and the keen eye of an engineer saved the two "supermen" and their guards, including Captain Wesley Westbrook, from being ground to death under the wheels of a speeding train.

Darkness had hidden the road ahead. On through the night sped seven cars. To the right were car tracks—the electric line to Joliet. Some distance down the track an express train was beating over the rails at breakneck speed.

Suddenly the curtained car—the one with the slayers—veered, slipped from the cement road, left the rails and landed dead in the centre of the track.

LEOPOLD STARTLED.

Less than fifty feet from the stalled car bearing the slayers the train had come to a stop.

"My God," Leopold gulped, "We're driving too fast."

Babe, the unemotional soon caught himself. His fear turned to levity. "What's the hurry, we've got at least fifty years."

RUM PROBE ON

band went on with the connivance of corrupt officials. The weekly protection price was $50, but the rum-runners were forced to pay additional sums for the safe conduct of their loads.

The original investigation was in charge of Assistant United States Attorney Elihu D. Stone, to whom liquor cases were turned over on order of Washington.

WITNESSES ARE GUARDED.

The case was reopened six weeks or more ago when Colonel Shanton took charge of the New England division of the Department of Justice.

Assistant Attorney Carroll was assigned to handle it, and at once began to summons witnesses.

When they appeared to the number of about sixty, in the lobby of the Grand Jury room today, they were rounded up and impounded in the petit jurw room under guard of United States Marshal William J. Keville.

The witnesses were said to include coastguardsmen, police officers, and officials of Newburyport and Salisbury.

Others who have received summonses are said to be high officials in town, city, county and State circles.

The list includes resort proprietors and managers, business men and women, and former rum runners who are said to have "come clean" to the Federal officers.

In the previous investigation a large number of affidavits were obtained from witnesses, many of whom are said to have been former rum-runners. These affidavits were filed pending court action, which was never taken.

It has recently been learned that certain of these affidavits have disappeared from the files. The charge has been made that the sum of $1,500 was paid for the larceny of these papers. Their makers are known, however, and they have received summonses.

LOAN OF 200 MILLIONS TO GERMANY

United States to Take Care of Half, According to the Present Plans

London, Sept. 12. (I.N.S.)—A Central News despatch from Rome today quoted Charles Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, as declaring a gold loan of 800,000,000 gold marks will be made to Germany within two months.

All New York banks have taken precautions to protect subscribers to the loan, and he predicted heavy American subscription.

Interviewed by Tribuna, Mr. Mitchell predicted that both France and Italy would participate in the loan.

Paris, Sept. 12.—The guiding principles of the first Dawes plan loan to Germany are to be arranged by representatives of J. P. Morgan & Company in conversations with the British bankers shortly, says Le Matin.

New York and Paris, the paper adds, favor a dollar loan of $200,000,000, of which $100,000,000 would be placed in the United States, $50,000,000 in England and $50,000,000 on the continent, French banks taking $10,000,000 of the continental slice. Each slice would be independent, that is only negotiable in the country where issued.

London, according to Le Matin, disagrees with the plan, principally because of "wounded pride" in that the loan is to be in dollars and not in sterling. The Franco-Americans, however, observe that it is to be a gold loan and that the dollar is the only monetary unit in the world which is on par with gold.

WOMAN, ILL, LEAPS TO HER DEATH AT HOTEL

New York, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Maude L. Rigby of Ormond Beach, Florida, who came here for treatment of a nervous ailment, was killed early today in leaping from a window of her room on the third floor of the Hotel Belmont. Her body struck a flag pole and crashed through the glass roof of a canopy.

She complained of illness last night and was attended by the hotel physician. During the rest of the night, Mr. Rigby had sat up with her. Early this morning he fell asleep and his wife jumped from the window. She was forty-two years old.

UNDERHILL IS ATTACKED BY WAR VETERANS

They Object to the Congressman as Speaker on Defense Day

Resolutions adopted by World War veterans of Somerville, attacking the selection of Congressman Charles L. Underhill as Defense Day speaker at Dilboy Field tonight, were presented today at Somerville City Hall.

The resolutions attack the Congressman for his attitude on matters pertaining to the interests of war veterans and for his attitude toward organized labor.

The mass meeting, which will follow a parade of veterans in Somerville tonight, will be presided over by Mayor Webster and the resolutions of protest were turned over to the Mayor.

Among other things the resolutions charge that Congressman Underhill "has been antagonistic to measures proposed by the American Legion, voted against the bonus bill on every reading and voted against the Bursum bill providing for an increase in the pensions of the veterans of the Civil War.

The Congressman is attacked for his stand against labor during the war. The resolutions conclude by asking that some speaker other than Congressman Underhill be selected for Defense Day programs in the future. The resolutions were signed by John J. Murphy, George Bragel, John J. Ryan, James F. Crawley and Thomas H. Ryan as a committee representing the veterans.

TWENTY DIE AS TYPHOON SWEEPS JAPAN COAST

Tokio, Sept. 12.—Twenty persons were killed today when a typhoon swept the southwestern coast of Japan. The fatalities resulted from residents being pinned beneath the wreckage of houses. Several persons are missing in fishing boats.

Tokio, Sept. 12.—More than fifty seamen were drowned early today as a result of the collision and sinking of two torpedo boats off Yokosuka.

The crews of the two boats, which were attached to the battleship Magato, numbered 115.

Sixty-five survivors were picked up by other vessels of the fleet, which was engaged in maneuvers.

Both the torpedo boats sank almost immediately after the collision.

35 INJURED AS CARS CRASH IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 12 (I.N.S.).—Thirty-five men and women were injured, two perhaps fatally, in a collision of two surface cars at 42nd street and Ninth avenue, today.

Many of the injured were trampled on in the rush of passengers to escape as the cars crashed. Several were pinned under the wreckage.

Jammed brakes were blamed for the accident. The motorman of one car and the conductor of the other may die.

LA FOLLETTE TO IGNORE LAST ATTACK BY DAWES

Washington, Sept. 12.—Senator Robert M. La Follette intends to withhold comment, at least for the present, on the attack made on him by Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice-presidential nominee, in a speech delivered last night in Milwaukee. Intimates of Senator La Follette said today that he probably will make no direct reply to General Dawes at any time during the campaign. He feels, they added, that the public, particularly in his home State of Wisconsin, is familiar with his record in public life, and that it would be better to keep on the offensive during the campaign.

SEARCH PROFESSOR'S HOME FOR MANUSCRIPT

Rome, Sept. 12.—Police officials representing the governmental department of public instruction made a thorough search of the home of Prof. Di Martino but failed to find any trace of the original manuscript of Livy's History of Rome, the reported discovery of which has stirred literary circles throughout Italy.

Prof. De Martino, who was absent from his house when the search was made, failed to appear before the proper authorities to report the details of his discovery of the Livy text. The search of his mother's home was made under the Italian law which gives the Government rights over antiquities discovered in Italy.

MENINGITIS SWEEPING JAPAN; 2,620 DEATHS

Tokio, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—The meningitis epidemic now sweeping Japan has resulted in 2,630 deaths out of a total of 4,333 cases reported, according to government reports made public today, which placed the death rate at 54 per cent. The epidemic is subsiding, the reports show.

SADI LECOINTE NOT COMING TO AMERICA

Paris, Sept. 12.—Sadi Lecointe, French aviator, has abandoned his plan of going to the United States to participate in the races for the Pulitzer cup.

The sporting paper L'Auto says Lecointe found that his airplane would not be ready in time to make the trip.

PORTLAND LINE TIED UP BY WRECK

14 Freight Cars Derailed by Broken Rail Near Durham, N. H.; No One Injured

Durham, N. H., Sept. 12.—The derailment of fourteen cars of an eastbound freight train near the Durham station early today tied up all traffic on the main Portland line of the Boston & Maine.

At 9:30 o'clock the westbound track was cleared, and the two wreckers from Salem and Portsmouth and a gang of section hands were working on the eastbound track.

The first Portland train out of Boston at 1:20 today was routed over the Georgetown branch and back to the main-line at North Brewer.

Cab service was maintained between Durham and North Brewer and Haverhill and Durham.

The wreck was caused by a broken rail. The ties and road bed were torn up for a considerable distance, and some of the cars were smashed into kindling wood. No one was injured.

AUTO IN FLAMES AFTER COLLISION

A broken gas tank, caused when a truck driven by David Shindel, No. 7 Chambers street, collided with his car, made Edward J. Flynn, No. 54 West Seventh street, South Boston, leave his car in a hurry and rush to a fire box when the hot exhaust pipe set fire to the gasoline.

Boston Folk Hail Former Hub Girl at Polo Matches

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTON folk attending the oft-postponed polo matches at Meadow Brook are bestowing hearty greetings upon jolly Mrs. Tom Cottman.

The one-time Margaret Bennett was one of the most popular girls ever to make her bow to Boston society. Since Tom Cottman captured her and carried her off to Baltimore, she has reigned as leader of the smart "younger-married" set of the Oriole City.

I wasn't at all surprised to hear that the Cottmans had come up for the Long Island matches, for few indeed are the big sporting events unattended by the former Boston girl and her husband.

The Cottmans have their country home in the fashionable Green Spring Valley section, and it was there that the ceremonial took place two Junes ago which transformed Miss Helen Bennett of Boston, younger sister of Mrs. Cottman, into the bride of Bulkeley Livermore Wells, formerly of the Hub.

Like her sister, the former Helen Bennett had been much to the fore in Vincent Club activities. In fact, Helen Bennett made quite a name for herself as a dashing "leading man" in the clever theatricals put on by the Vincentites. Since her marriage to Mr. Wells, the couple have been making their home in Gotham.

Even the third of the Bennett sisters—they are the daughters of Stephen Howe Bennett—has deserted Boston. Up until last year Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cunningham (Elizabeth Bennett) were active members of the senior supper dance crowd, but now their home is in Providence.

EVERYONE seems to be in Manhattan this week, at least those associated with society's sport-loving coterie.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Grosvenor (Anita Strawbridge), whose home is out Brookline way, have interrupted their Newport sojourn to be "among those present" when the British and American players cross mallets.

Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Ayer and the George S. Mandells also have gone over to Gotham, making their headquarters at the St. Regis, as have also a host of others, including B. Nason Hamlin, J. Dudley Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forbes, the Augustus F. Goodwins and Freddy Prince, Jr.

LEADER OF COHASSET BALL

Mrs. Charles C. Colt (Amy Lee) of No. 79 Charles street, who has been working for the success of the dance taking place this evening at the Cohasset Town Hall. (Photo by Marceau.)

MRS. CHARLES C. COLT (Amy Lee) is a leading spirit for the dance to be held this evening in the Cohasset Town Hall.

The affair, which is sure to attract a large portion of the South Shore colony, is to benefit the National Playground Association. Mrs. Colt's father, Joseph Lee, of Mt. Vernon street and Cohasset, is president of the association, which is doing some splendid work in providing playgrounds in the congested districts of the large cities.

In the group helping Mrs. Colt with the arrangements for tonight's affair are Mesdames Samuel Cabot, William B. Bacon (Mary Bartow), Richard Everett and Roger I. Lee, as well as the Misses Jessie Bancroft, Guinevere Knott and Esther Smith.

Society News

MRS. NATHANIEL THAYER has returned from Newport and opened her town house on Fairfield street.

Harold I. Sewall of Boston and New York is returning to the latter place on board his yacht, the Fame, after more than a month's cruise off Bar Harbor, Me.

Mrs. John L. Saltonstall of Commonwealth avenue and Topsfield has sailed for Europe on board the Paris, accompanied by her four children, the Misses Jean, Elizabeth, Priscilla and John L. Saltonstall, Jr.

Other passengers on board the Paris were Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer and Miss Martha C. Codman are among the boxholders for the recital of Oriental chants and rare songs to be given in Newport at the Art Association September 22 by Mme. Lyska.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall Nichols (Corina Ely) are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter born to them on Monday at Faulkner Hospital. The child has been named Elizabeth Codman.

An exhibition of the works done by the pupils of Rosamond Tudor (Mrs. W. Starling Burgess) opened earlier in the week at Beverly Farms. H. Dudley Murphy is judging the exhibition.

Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown and her son, John Nicholas Brown, who have gone to New York from Newport for the polo matches, are stopping at the Ritz-Carlton.

HARDING, HELD FOR THEFT, OWES $164,132

Arthur S. Harding, defaulting cashier of Estabrook & Company, State street brokers, and erstwhile "oil can" manufacturer, today filed a statement of his financial condition in the Federal Building, in answer to a creditor's petition in bankruptcy brought against him recently.

A total of $164,132 in unsecured debts, and $19,000, secured, are declared.

Machinery, fixtures and stock of the oil can plant in Somerville, in which Harding invested the funds of his concern, are described without valuation.

PRINCE OF WALES LIKES HER DANCING STYLE

MRS. FREDERICK CRUGER
One of the most attractive of Manhattan's younger matrons, whose grace and litheness on the dance floor were praised by the Prince.

PRINCE AT LAST GETS TO BED ON TIME

Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 12 (I.N.S.)—Despite announcements made in New York that Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, was a ringside spectator at last night's fight between Harry Wills and Luis Angel Firpo, Captain A. F. Lascelles, his secretary, told newspapermen today that the Prince was not at the fight.

"The Prince spent a quiet afternoon," Captain Lascelles said, "dined privately and in the evening made a few calls on Long Island. He was not in Manhattan and he was not in Jersey City."

Confirmation of the fact that for once at least the Prince actually did spend a quiet evening, catching up on lost sleep, came when newspapermen called the Burden estate last night at 10 o'clock and were answered by a butler, roused from his slumbers, who said H. R. H. was asleep.

Although no definite time has been fixed for Wales' departure for his ranch in Canada because of the postponement of the polo matches he came to America to see, it was said today that he has made tentative plans to leave here either Wednesday or Thursday.

Jordan Marsh Company

New England Merchandise Comes First

THE business of Jordan Marsh Company is so closely knit into the prosperity of New England that the two are one fabric. This store, a New England institution for more than three-quarters of a century, has grown and prospered with the growth of the New England States.

Naturally we give New England merchandise preference first, last and all the time. Hundreds of New England manufacturers find their largest and most natural outlet through New England's greatest retail store. No matter how far afield our buyers go in search of merchandise demanded by our customers, the home market is always the best market; and, value for value, the home market is our market.

In the enormous volume of purchases of New England made goods and the large number of different lines included, Jordan Marsh Company is undoubtedly the largest buyer of New England made merchandise of any retail store in the world.

MAN OF 70 FALLS DOWN STAIRS; SKULL BROKEN

The Most Complete Department Store in New England Takes the Final Step to Make it Absolutely Complete in Every Detail

Saturday We Open Our New Men's Clothing Department

Because we aim to have the most complete department store in New England, because men's clothing has been the only merchandise needed in the average home and family that we did not carry and because of a constantly increasing demand from our clientele, we have decided to add Men's Clothing to our present list of over eighty complete departments.

Our Policy

The policy in this, our newest department, will be the same as in all the other sections of this great store—to sell merchandise of thoroughly reliable quality at moderate prices. Those who want extreme styles and exclusive fabrics at their usual high prices will not be interested in this department. Those who buy clothes on price only, disregarding quality, style and workmanship, likewise will not be interested.

But the average man, the man who wants good styles, styles accepted by men who dress conservatively and neatly and insist on good tailoring and good quality of material combined with a guarantee of satisfacton at a moderate price, will find this new department of ours an excellent place to purchase clothing.

We shall be able to fit any man. If we haven't the suit in stock, we can take your measurements and make delivery within a week.

W. EDWIN ULMER, BOSTON ATTORNEY, IS VINDICATED

of such witnesses leaves reasonably no other course. A new trial will prove long and expensive and of no useful purpose.

"The Commonwealth has no new testimony to offer, and, if the testimony of the principal witnesses is rejected, or is of a character that leaves the court to set aside on grounds set forth by the court, there would be insufficient evidence for jury consideration.

"The defendant is a member of the bar, sixty-two years of age and has no previous record. The defendant does not concur in this course.

(Signed) "MAURICE CARO,
"Assistant District Attorney."
June 20, 1924.

This memorandum filed by Assistant District Attorney Caro ends the long fight for vindication conducted for several years by Mr. Ulmer to clear himself of charges brought against him growing out of his connection with the Waban Rose Conservatories.

The complete vindication of Justice Pierce by the unanimous vote of the Legislature on charges of improper dealings in connection with Mr. Ulmer and the same Waban Rose Conservatories is well known.

Mr. Caro's memorandum was filed in the matter of the indictment of Mr. Ulmer alleging that he had filed false returns of the corporation. At the trial one of the Government's witnesses against Mr. Ulmer was a man named Sleeper. The case was tried before Judge Fosdick in the Superior Court.

Judge Fosdick says in his memorandum quoted in full below. Sleeper testified to "an alleged admission made by the defendant," "an essential and vital element in the case" against Attorney Ulmer, and Ulmer made, in the words of the court, "great but unsuccessful efforts to show Sleeper's bias against him." The jury returned a verdict against Mr. Ulmer.

TO SHOW BIAS.

Later there was tried in the Middlesex Superior Court the case of Sleeper vs. Barnes, in which the same Sleeper was the plaintiff.

In that trial certain evidence came out which Ulmer believed sustained his contention that Sleeper was biased against him, and he filed a motion for a new trial on this newly discovered evidence, the character of which is revealed in Judge Fosdick's memorandum, which reads as follows:

"Investigation of the bills of exceptions in Sleeper v. Barnes shows that at that trial Alfred B. White, a lawyer of excellent reputation and standing, the partner of the witness Barnes who testified before me, testified that Sleeper, who was a witness before me, called by the Commonwealth, had told him (White) that he (Sleeper) hated the defendant (Ulmer) and would 'lie to see him where he belongs.'

SHOWED ANIMOSITY

"Having in mind the situation at this trial before me it is not likely that the defendant would know that Mr. White could give testimony tending to show so clearly the animosity of Sleeper against the defendant.

"The recent falling out between Sleeper and Barnes revealed to the defendant the existence, availability and strength of this evidence. I find that the defendant did not know of the existence of this evidence at the time of the trial before me and that reasonable diligence on his part would not have revealed it to him.

"At the trial before me the witness Sleeper testified to an alleged admission made in his hearing by the defendant which established an essential and vital element in the case against the defendant and which the defendant denied having made. In cross-examining Sleeper the defendant, who tried the case pro se, made great but unsuccessful efforts to show Sleeper's bias against him.

"I am convinced that if the jury had heard White's evidence as to Sleeper's hatred of the defendant, they well might have given no weight to Sleeper's testimony. I think that Mr. White's evidence would have been relevant, admissible and highly material to the defence.

"The offence charged against the defendant in this case is one of rare occurrence and few if any decision were found governing several essential features of it. The defendant took very numerous exceptions, for saving many of which, he had completed justification as they raised questions proper for the consideration of the Supreme Judicial Court.

MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE.

"The defendant has been granted numerous extensions of time for filing a bill of his exceptions and the District Attorney has been justified in assenting to them by reason of the number of exceptions and the unusual questions raised.

"Pending the filing of the bill of exceptions the existence of material portions of the evidence referred to in the motion was revealed to the defendant for the first time and he seasonably thereafter filed the motion which raises no question that could have been raised at the trial.

"I am convinced that to allow the verdict of guilty to stand without the defendant having an opportunity to put before the jury the evidence of Mr. White and to use in cross-examination of Sleeper and Barnes the testimony given by them in Sleeper v. Barnes, tending, if believed, to show a combination between them against the defendant, to have him convicted and thereby removed from the path to their de

"Therefore the motion is granted, the verdict is set aside and a new trial ordered."

(Signed Frederick W. Fosdick,
Justice Superior Court.

The refusal of the District Attorney further to prosecute the case when taken in connection with the reasons given by Mr. Caro and the complete and specific memorandum of Judge Fosdick, now shows on the Court records a complete clearing of the charges brought against Mr. Ulmer.

Although it took longer and was not as publicly obtained, Mr. Ulmer's vindication is as complete as that of Judge Pierce.

MILITARY JUNTA NOW IN CONTROL OF CHILE

Buenos Aires, Sept. 12 (I.N.S.).—Chile today was under control of a military triumvirate, following the resignation of President Alessandri.

The military junta consists of General Altamirano, the newly constituted Vice-President; General Juan J. Bennett and Admiral Francisco Neff.

Congress, which refused to accept President Alessandri's proffered resignation, has been dissolved.

CITY ISSUES WARNING TO MUSHROOM PICKERS

Beware of "Muscarine poisoning."

This notice was today sent out by Health Commissioner Dr. Francis X. Mahoney to warn the public against picking what is believed to be mushrooms, when really they are poisonous growths.

The warning has been sent into the thickly settled Italian sections of East Boston and Hyde Park, whose foreign element are wont to pick this particular type of vegetation.

DROP BOSTON CHARGES AGAINST MOSETTE

Suffolk County today washed its hands of Sir Thomas Mosette, confidence man extraordinary.

At the instance of District Attorney O'Brien Judge Raymond, in Superior Court, quashed the indictments against the master swindler, on being told that Mosette was already under sentence in Middlesex County for grand larceny, and quite probably would not survive his three to five-year sentence.

When the Leaves Begin to Turn— will you turn then, New England Women, to the Brookside plan of "Cash and Carry?"

AUTUMN, coming along after carefree vacation days, is the season for adjustments and readjustments—the time when you thoughtful New England housewives put into operation plans already made for the months to come:

—clothing plans for yourself and children;

—school plans for the little tots;

—food and money-saving plans for the whole family.

And isn't that last plan about the most important one of all?

"Yes," you say, "because food and money-saving are absolutely essential to family health, happiness, prosperity."

Since you agree that this is true

—will you test just once the pleasure derived from the old New England habit of personally entering a grocery store, selecting the things you need, chatting a bit about this and that, carrying your bundles home?

—will you keep account just once of the money saved by this experiment in Brookside shopping—saved by the enormous Brookside buying power, wasteless distribution, and "Cash and Carry"?

—will you try just once the surpassing quality of Brookside food products, and experience just once the courteous attention of a Brookside Store manager to your every desire?

When the leaves begin to turn (or before they do) get the habit of buying — at the nearest Brookside store—everything you require in butter, eggs, milk, cream, cheese, coffee, tea, canned foods, biscuits, potatoes, flour — groceries of the finest kinds for every purpose.

It's a habit that will get you many extra luxuries—because of the money saved on food necessities.

130 FILIPINOS HELD IN HAWAIIAN RIOTS

Lihue, Island of Kauai, T. H., Sept. 12 (AP).—Police, aided by national guardsmen with fixed bayonets and machine guns, continued their round-up today of Filipino strikers involved in a riot last Tuesday at the McBryde plantation, near Hanepepe, in which sixteen Filipinos and four policemen were killed. One hundred and thirty alleged strikers are held in jail here on charges in connection with the disturbance.

Police searched the camps of strikers and confirmed their theory that the outbreak was premeditated when several pistols and many cane knives were found in a banana grove near the scene of the outbreak.

PURCHASE N. E. GOODS, SAYS LAWRENCE

Points Out Importance of the Home Market at Committee Session

"There is a strong feeling that many New England retail buyers prefer to go elsewhere to make purchases and there is something wrong if this is so," said John S. Lawrence, chairman of New England Week Committee, in addressing 500 buyers and managers of Boston stores in the Jordan Marsh Company auditorium today. There were several other speakers, including Felix Vorenberg and former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

"Probably both buyer and seller are at fault," continued Mr. Lawrence. "Buyers and sellers should travel to make comparisons, but be ever mindful that developing a neighborhood source of supply and distribution makes customers and every day in every way seek to make your local industries better and better if your business is to prosper."

IMPORTANCE OF MARKET.

He also said:

"The New England market is rated at about 15 per cent. of that of the United States, but the New England market is of greater importance than this figure indicates, for New England distribution radiates over the rest of the country as does no other market, possibly because so many people hail from New England, come here as summer visitors, or have a greater respect for the New England dealer's selection.

"New England Week is sound economically, and has developed co-operation between capital, labor and management, producer and distributor. The producer can make or break the local distributor through his wage distribution. The distributor can contribute to the success of the local manufacturer by assisting in merchandising local products by demonstration and example.

DISTRIBUTORS BIG AID.

"The New England wholesaler and retailer who helps the local manufacturer to make what the market wants, and helps the New England factory to introduce goods at home that they may radiate over this country and abroad increases his own prosperity by increasing the buying power of his customers. It is this co-operation that New England needs and must have to prosper.

"New England Week is sound economics. It is the return to old simple principles: 'Sail in the boat you build before asking others to go.' 'Wear your own cloth before recommending it to others.' If you keep a restaurant don't habitually go out for meals."

Felix Vorenberg, president of the Retail Trade Board said:

"New England Week means 'getting together' to let he epople know what New England stands for and to determine what it ought to be.

STANDS FOR HOSPITALITY.

"New England stands for hospitality if it stands for anything. The clerks in all stores should be informed so that they may be able to talk next week about the New England made goods behind their counters with some degree of assurance. I hope the New England Week spirit will continue throughout the year."

Mark Burlingame, chairman of the All New England Week committee said:

"When we ask you to push New England made goods we ask it on a service basis as New England manufacturers make better goods as a whole than those of any other part of the United States."

Former Mayor Fitzgerald said:

"New England must get on its toes and I am not discouraged when I see enthusiastic meetings like this one. I saw it years ago that New England, to keep abreast of the rest of the country would be compelled, because of its isolation, to make better and finer things than the rest of the country.

SLAYS FASCIST DEPUTY FOR REVENGE

Worker, Carrying Pictures of Matteotti, Assassinates Casalini

Rome, Sept. 12 (A.P.). — Armando Casalini, Fascist deputy, died in a hospital today from two revolver wounds, inflicted upon him this morning by Giovanni Corvi, a workingman, who when arrested, told Fascist militiamen that he had fired upon Signor Casalini to avenge the death of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist deputy.

The attack took place when Signor Casalini was riding with his daughter on a street car. Corvi fired three shots, two of which took effect in his victim's head.

Pictures of Matteotti were found in Corvi's pocket.

SEQUEL OF CHICKIE

By Elenore Meherin

Boston Girl's Impassioned Love Story and Her Struggle to Live It Down and Come Back

"I GUESSED that—no, I didn't speak. . . . I thought you'd want to know lots of things, do you?"

"Yes [illegible] I do. I want to know who has my room—who [illegible] my place [illegible]."

[illegible] your room of course. I'm [illegible] Irene wa[illegible] fury, but every one [illegible] at her."

"Why? On account of me?"

[illegible] Chickie [illegible] a tight, strained tone. "Does everyone blame her for [illegible]?"

"[illegible] you know how they are [illegible] should [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] knew she [illegible] of course, he her [illegible]? I mean Dr. Harmon—did she?"

"Oh, you know—a girl always blames some one [illegible] she [illegible] out. Yes—she [illegible] said you broke up her [illegible], so she was going to [illegible] and [illegible] own [illegible] laugh [illegible] ous?"

[illegible]

"[illegible]?" She accused [illegible]

"[illegible] not [illegible]"

Again [illegible] her head and [illegible] "Yes. She told me that was her reason [illegible] what she had found out. [illegible] a doctor [illegible] would [illegible] a girl [illegible] and [illegible] and—"

A sudden weakness overcame her. [illegible] for a [illegible] against [illegible] in a soft [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] her [illegible] him [illegible] [illegible] letter, too, [illegible]"

"I [illegible] know [illegible] Perhaps she did. . . ."

New Bonds

Jonathan set down the suitcase and gave a forlorn survey to the four walls that would now be Chickie's home. He put his arm about her [illegible] the soft young face in his hand [illegible] girl. But [illegible] was a [illegible]

"[illegible]"

"But [illegible] much of a home is it?"

"[illegible]"

"Maybe [illegible] He seem[illegible] glad [illegible] that and chuckled.

She watched him [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] looked [illegible] and clothes lines.

The room was orderly, but with [illegible] Miss [illegible] precise. She [illegible] "I hope we shall be friends. I hope you're going to like it."

Then she [illegible] up a notebook and went out.

A [illegible] Coming here [illegible] had been a song of triumph in her thoughts. It left no echoes. She felt [illegible] and very quiet. [illegible] she [illegible] the sky [illegible]

But this change was the last. It would [illegible] things and [illegible] tired of playing the same tasks on the same people.

She went resolutely to her new [illegible] she had known [illegible] not get used to the many private rooms, to the smallness of the place and the shut inness of it. She had a wish to let in the sun and air, a longing for the wide, glowing gardens, the long corridors, the [illegible] wards, the children and all the surging vitality of the place she had left.

Even the girls seemed older and a little smug.

But then Mrs. Ellis came to her, a [illegible] look in the fighting eyes: "How do you like us, Miss [illegible]?"

[illegible] she was so filled with grief [illegible] she answered impulsively: "I'm going to love it. Oh, as soon as I feel more familiar with things. Don't you think I'll do?"

"Why, my dear girl, you better [illegible]" She laughed.

Wanted Hard Task

Then Chickie wished that Mrs. Ellis would ask her to do some impossible, fearful task. wished she would ask her to stay up for a [illegible] without sleep—or, something [illegible]. That would [illegible]

[illegible] with a new fervor. [illegible] David [illegible] her [illegible] hysterical [illegible] lady—save [illegible] you're going [illegible] these days on a [illegible]

BOYS HOLD UP GIRL AND ROB STORE

Three youths armed with revolvers held up Miss Gladys McGowan in her father's store at Mystic and Vernon avenues, East Somerville, took $30 from the cash drawer and escaped in an automobile.

Miss McGowan told the police she was alone in the store, when the youths, each about eighteen years old and wearing dark suits and caps, entered.

As they stepped in all three produced revolvers, and as the girl gasped, one of them commanded:

"Don't be frightened, all we want is the money."

While one of the men kept his weapon pointed at Miss McGowan the other two walked over to the cash drawer and rifled it.

Then cautioning her to be quiet the trio backed out of the store, stepped into an automobile and was whirled away.

The store is owned by J. B. McGowan.

CONWAY SAYS WILD BULL HAD SHADE OVER BROWN PANTHER

BATTLE IS FARCE OF CENTURY

By JACK CONWAY

Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, Sept. 11.—Luis Firpo, champion of South America, had a slight margin on Harry Wills, Brown Panther of New Orleans, in their twelve-round bout here.

The contest went the full distance. It was one of the most miserable heavyweight contests of importance ever seen in an American ring.

Wills has been a credit to the boxing game and deserves some of [illegible] now that his [illegible] boxer is about over.

Blow to Reformers

As for Firpo he is almost as crude a boxer as he was a year ago. His inability to successfully break through the guard of the aged Wills has not [illegible] his ability as a box office [illegible]

Tex Rickard will probably [illegible] himself between Firpo and the shafts of Canon Chase. If deported Firpo will be no loss to [illegible]

With Firpo eliminated as an important factor in the ring game as a result of his own poor showing against Wills there would be no real glory for Canon Chase and his crowd if they had him deported.

Action Would Come Late

Furthermore, South Americans [illegible] interested in the Wills bout and for [illegible] it might be unwise for the United States to deport Firpo at this time.

If [illegible] had been taken against Firpo it should have been [illegible] people were [illegible] out of about $500,000 for the [illegible]

South Boston Boy Star in Prelim On Heavy Card

Boyles Thirty Acres, Jersey City, Sept. 12.—Despite disadvantages in weight and reach, Jim Maloney, of Boston, outpointed Joe Stoessel, of New York, former amateur heavyweight star, in the fourth and last preliminary before the main event. Maloney floored his opponent for a count of six in the last round and had the New Yorker badly beaten. Maloney weighed 197 and Stoessel 213½.

Maloney knocked Stoessel down in the sixth round and had him almost out at the bell. It was Maloney's bout.

Racing Starts Sept. 24

Cleveland, Sept. 11.—A sixteen-day running horse meeting will open at the new Brooklyn Park half-mile track, September 24, according to plans just announced. The meeting will follow the one at Maple Heights. Heretofore only harness horses have raced over the Brooklyn track.

ROXBURY A. A. TO HAVE CHAMPION GRID TEAM

The Roxbury A. A. will be represented on the gridiron this Fall with the fastest eleven to ever represent the Roxbury district, and is anxious to hear from the leading outfits in New England.

Twenty-five candidates have answered the first call for practice, including twelve veterans from last year's team.

Any team looking for a first-class attraction will be accommodated by calling Jamaica 1540-M, after 6 p. m., or by writing James P. Walsh, 970 Parker street, Roxbury.

QUINCY A. L. TO HOLD OPEN AIR BOXING SHOW

The Quincy Post, No. 95 American Legion, will hold an Open Air Amateur boxing tournament next Wednesday evening at the Fore River Club Grounds, Quincy. Many of the best boys in New England have entered the three different classes, namely the 118, 125 and 136 pounds.

Entries will close Monday with Arthur E. Griffin, Quincy Post, American Legion, Quincy.

Amateur Boxers in Big Tourney at St. Joe's Show

Knights of the simon pure ranks will compete in the first boxing tournament of the season tonight at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin Square, at the initial tournament under the direction of the St. Joseph's T. A. S.

With the hope of developing some new amateur stars for the big tourneys of the Winter, chairman William H. Cuddy has arranged to give the fans a treat tonight.

There will be competition in five classes for novices. Bouts are listed in the 112, 118, 126, 135 and 147 lb. classes and it is reported that there is a record early season entry list in each division.

K. O. SPECIALISTS TO CLASH IN HARLEM RING

Jess McMahon, matchmaker of the Commonwealth Sporting Club, predicts a capacity crowd will be present on tomorrow night when Rocky Smith hooks up with Jack McVey, Al Brown goes against Billy Marlow and Jack DeMave tackles Joe Cavalier in a trio of ten-round numbers.

I've called it the "STYLE CORNER," because it's brim full of style

Men who have money can afford to buy a hat with a name that represents VALUE rather than a label that spells PRICE.

That's one good reason why they have money.

When I started this business 25 years ago I fixed the place at the point where Quality Street meets Style Ave. and that's where I stand today.

Latzo Eager to Encounter Walker in Return Bout

Embryo champions and ring marvels spring up from every corner of the globe, but Pete Latzo, Pennsylvania's welterweight champion and [illegible] region [illegible] goes on in a businesslike manner, eliminating one after another of the punch mechanics, clamoring for an opportunity to meet Mickey Walker, [illegible] welterweight champion [illegible] Latzo another [illegible]

Folks from the hard coal fields are stirred up over a contemplated meeting between Latzo and Lew Tendler, which according to advance reports will pack the spacious Scranton Armory seating 12,000. Probably this accounts for Latzo's [illegible] appearances in the Metropolis [illegible] capacity house greeting his every showing.

And as one Scranton fan [illegible] puts it, "Latzo's name alone is a guarantee of real action, so why shouldn't we show our appreciation of his efforts."

The Reward of Merit

OUR 83 hat stores—always doing the business of the neighborhood—prove very conclusively that public approval is the reward for offering very high grade hats at very moderate prices.

Because we make our own hats and sell them direct through our own stores, we have the distinction of competing with high-grade shops on QUALITY, and with popular-priced shops on PRICE.

OUR fall showing is attracting good dressers who know good style, good hats, and good values.

We have all the styles that any hatter has, and a lot that the other hatters haven't. We'll show you the latest shapes and the newest shades—Powder Blue, Pearl, Dove Grey, Polo Tan, Forest Brown—and the greatest values ever—for they're all $2.85.

Here's our story, straight from the shoulder:—

Kaufman Hats at $2.85 are identically the same as those shown by the high-priced hatters. If there's any difference in style, it's in favor of our hats; the big price difference is in your favor.

AUSTRALIA LOSES IN SINGLES

By VINCENT RICHARDS

Germantown Cricket Club, Sept. 12.—[illegible] took W[illegible] an T[illegible] T[illegible] [illegible] champion [illegible] two minutes [illegible] the historic [illegible] cup safe from the onslaught of the Australian players. The lanky Philadelphian [illegible] that [illegible] the measure of Gerald L. Patterson, captain of the opposing forces, [illegible] out the match at 6-4, 5-2, 6-?.

So easy was the match for "Big Bill" that he did not even remove his sweater at any time during the match.

In the second match of the day I defeated [illegible] Wood in straight sets at [illegible] 6-2, 6-4. Wood, who is considered the greatest doubles player in the world today, rose to great heights during the [illegible] but it was not until the last set that he was able to maintain those brilliant strokes for any length of time.

[illegible] in today's singles [illegible] for at least another season. It is reasonable [illegible] that we will win one more of the singles contests, which would give us the required three points for the championship.

Critics are of the opinion that the Australian players will give the best account of themselves in the doubles match scheduled for this afternoon. They point to the fact that Patterson and Wood excel in team work and [illegible] Tilden [illegible] [illegible]

Much of this is undoubtedly true, but we must not overlook the fact when these four players meet that Tilden and Johnston are two of the greatest singles players in the game at present. Their individual brilliance may be too much for the men from "down under" in the coming match.

In the singles matches on Saturday, Wood will meet Tilden and Patterson and myself will resume our court feud.

FLYING TO END ALL INTERCONTINENTAL WARS

Providence, R. I., Sept. 12 (I.N.S.).—Predicting the end of inter-continental wars through the development of commercial aviation in the United States, Rear Admiral W. F. Fullam, U. S. N., retired, urged the development of a[illegible] in the United States before the [illegible] of [illegible] at a luncheon here.

"A commercial air force used for transportation in time of peace and convertible into a fighting unit in time of war, would eliminate the possibility of inter-continental wars," Rear Admiral Fullam said. "We would be able to concentrate our air forces from all parts of the country in two days," he added.

The Murdock Neutrodyne

will end your search for the right receiver

Distant Stations can be tuned in with remarkable clearness and volume. All but the most distant can be heard on a loud speaker.

Local Stations can be tuned out readily, enabling you to choose the broadcast programs you want to hear at will—and without interference from other stations.

Easy to Operate. Any one can learn to operate this receiver with ease and skill. A station once located and the dial settings noted, that station can always be brought in again by returning to the same dial settings.

Dependable. This receiver is guaranteed to give the utmost satisfaction under all conditions where reception is possible.

Appearance. The handsome solid mahogany cabinet and pleasing design make it acceptable to music or living room.

Let your dealer demonstrate the Murdock Neutrodyne for you. He will arrange for installation.

THE NATIONAL VELVET VERNIER DIAL

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Perfect Resonance Control

The Mechanism of the Velvet Vernier Dial is made entirely of bronze and brass, giving exceedingly long life. It will never wear out by daily use. No lost motion or back lash can possibly develop. Therefore it will always give PERFECT RESONANCE CONTROL. A leading Radio Engineer has termed it, "The dial with that velvet touch which delights the heart of the user." "True running and uniform, with graceful, pleasing lines."

SOME PERTINENT FACTS

With the large number of Broadcast Stations now operating on narrowly separated wavelengths and using high power it is extremely important that receiving sets possess the ability to separate the various wavelengths if interference is to be avoided. Vernier dials alone will not accomplish this but the combinations of LOW LOSS condensers coupled to a smooth running vernier dial will do it.

Curve B on the chart illustrates the broad tuning produced by a HIGH LOSS condenser and coil. 390 and 400 meters would be inseparable. Curve A illustrates the sharpness of tuning obtained with a NATIONAL DX condenser and dial connected with a National low loss coil. 390 and 400 meters are easily separated.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

THOMAS A. EDISON invited a few friends to his home one day in 1877. When they were seated he brought in a small compact instrument, laid it upon a table and touched a spring. Immediately the instrument remarked:

"Good morning. How do you do? How do you like the phonograph?"

Edison took his invention before scientific men and a few months later gave an exhibition before President and Mrs. Hayes at the White House. It spoke English, French, German, Dutch, Spanish and Hebrew. It barked like a dog and crowed like a rooster.

Everybody was astonished and predicted a wonderful future for it, but for a long time it seemed of no practical value.

It happened that Edison had made several inventions which were of great assistance in improving the telephone of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell. It was Dr. Bell and his telephone associates who now became interested in the phonograph. They recognized that its weakness was its tinfoil record and they invented the wax cylinder which made it possible to construct a record that could not easily be mutilated and distorted.

The big horn was the next improvement on the phonograph, enabling people to enjoy the machine without eartubes. Then in rapid succession came the recording of operatic selections sung by the great artists. Half a dozen competing companies were offering varieties of talking machines. The flat disc practically superseded the cylinder.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THERE seems to be an epidemic of romance in this country. Everybody is getting married as often as possible.

SEVERAL men have taken on new wives without getting rid of the old ones.

THEY figure that a wife in the home is worth two in the court room.

LOVE is a wonderful thing, especially if you've got a good lawyer.

ATTORNEYS walk in where Cupids fear to tread.

ONE guy had three wives at the same time and still he felt lonesome.

THE three gals finally ran into each other and the next day they held a mass meeting.

THEY talked it over and decided to discard him.

NOW he's as broken hearted as a mouse with lockjaw in a cheese factory.

THE government allows a man to have as many wives as he wants, but he has to marry them in rotation.

NO matter how much a girl may love him, she has to wait her turn.

A SCIENTIST once remarked that there is safety in numbers. Maybe he's right, but not when it comes to women.

A FEW RADIO SPARKS

FIRST it was the telegraph, then the telephone, and now it's radio.

Woman preceded all of them, and she is still going strong.

Woman was the original and is yet the most successful broadcaster.

She is never troubled with static.

Radio is an outgrowth of woman and the party line telephone.

On a party line you hear what you are supposed not to hear. Therein lies the thrill.

If a broadcaster could make you think you were not supposed to hear, radio would be more popular.

You can hang up the receiver or tune out the radio.

Only a dentist can make a woman stop talking.

Radio will never be popular with some men.

They think the next step will be thought transference.

A woman can't keep a secret now. Men soon won't be able to.

A lot of men have to let their household odd jobs go to tinker with a receiving set.

There's as much fun in getting San Francisco as in running a home-made still.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner.

HOUSEWIVES need to be warned that there is danger from germ contamination after potatoes have been cooked.

Dr. Mahoney.

It must be remembered that germs grow with such rapidity on the starch of potatoes that the latter are frequently used in bacteriological laboratories for the cultivation of germs.

If cooked potatoes—"cold" potatoes—are sliced with unclean hands they are sure to be contaminated, and if they are then saved over, and served without again being cooked they are sure to have on them not only active germs, but poisons manufactured by the germs.

This is why nearly all the cases of potato poisoning occur from eating potato salad.

With proper precaution as to clean hands and a clean icebox, kept very cold, and by keeping the potatoes only a short time, this palatable dish may be eaten with perfect confidence.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Do you believe decayed teeth may cause rheumatism? Have been told that I should have all of mine extracted if I want to be rid of rheumatism. D. S. R.

You have been correctly informed that teeth may be the cause of rheumatism. I would advise you to have your teeth X-Rayed and let your dentist and doctor decide what should be done.

What would you recommend for "frazzled nerves"? I get all shot to pieces at the least thing. MRS. E. G.

I think you had better consult the neurological department of the City Hospital or Massachusetts General Hospital. You should use your will power to prevent yourself from "going to pieces." It rests with you. "Nerves" are largely a habit.

I have had bladder trouble since my last child was born. Do you think an operation would help me? MRS. H.

I could not tell you whether or not an operation would be advisable, because I do not know the nature of your trouble. I would advise you to consult the gynecological department of the Massachusetts General Hospital, if you have no family physician.

I have fallen arches. Is there some kind of a plate which can be worn? MRS. E. T. O.

You should have plates properly fitted into your shoes and possibly your arches should be strapped. There is an orthopedic department in the Boston City Hospital, where this examination could be made for you.

Use Your Eyes and Win a Prize!

$1700.00

TO BE WON!

During the week of September 15th to 20th, the retail stores throughout New England will devote their windows, shelves and counters to the display and sale of things made in New England.

The Boston American is going to compile with your help a complete list of these products of New England, and will distribute $1700 in cash awards to those who report having seen during New England Week—September 15th-20th—the largest number of different articles made or grown in New England displayed for sale in the retail stores of New England.

This is a further incentive to make a success of New England Week and will encourage you to do your share toward bringing prosperity to New England, by seeing and knowing New England products.

No compositions to write. No puzzles to solve. No coupons to clip. No labels to collect. Just try your skill at a little easy reporting.

1st Grand Award $500

2nd Award $200

First grand award, $500 cash, to be paid to the resident of N. E. sending in the largest list of all—according to the rules below—and the second grand award of $200 cash to the resident of N. E. sending in the second largest list of all, according to the rules below.

35 OTHER CASH AWARDS

to be distributed by districts as follows:

They will be paid to the seven persons who live in each of the following districts and who send in the largest lists of the New England products they have seen on display in the retail stores of New England during New England Week, September 15th to 20th, both dates inclusive.

	Mass.	Maine	New Hampshire	Vermont	R.I. & Conn.
First Award	$100.00	$100.00	$100.00	$100.00	$100.00
Second Award	50.00	50.00	50.00	50.00	50.00
Third Award	25.00	25.00	25.00	25.00	25.00
Fourth Award	10.00	10.00	10.00	10.00	10.00
Fifth Award	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00
Sixth Award	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00
Seventh Award	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00
Total	$200.00	$200.00	$200.00	$200.00	$200.00

Grand Total $1700.00 in Cash

All to be paid to the residents of New England, men and women over 18 years of age, who mail in before midnight on Saturday, September 20th, 1924, the largest total number (listed as required) of different New England products they have seen on display in the retail stores anywhere in New England during New England Week, September 15th to 20th, both dates inclusive.

Here Are the Very Simple Rules—Study Them Carefully

FIRST. Give the name or trade mark name of the New England Product. Example: "Hall Mark Silver."

SECOND. Give the name of the maker. Example: Crittenden Mfg. Co.

THIRD. Give the town in which it is manufactured. Example: Hingham, Massachusetts.

FOURTH. Give the name of the store where you saw it exhibited. Example: J. H. Houghton & Co., Brockton, Mass.

FIFTH. Put the date at the top of your list and send in your complete list at one time.

As Simple and as Easy as That!

BE SURE TO SUPPLY THE COMPLETE FACTS ASKED FOR ABOVE. Neatness will be taken into consideration in making the awards and the lists will be checked back for accuracy. Make up your list only between Sept. 15 and Sept. 20, both dates inclusive.

USE YOUR EYES AND WIN A PRIZE!

MAIL IN YOUR LIST TO NEW ENGLAND EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN
P. O. BOX NO. 221, BOSTON, MASS., not later than midnight, September 20th.

By keeping your eyes open and making a complete list of all the articles made in New England that you see, you will stand a chance of receiving a big cash prize.

Anyone 18 years old, or over, man or woman, is eligible. You must be a resident of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island or Connecticut. No limit is set on the character of the products except that they must have been seen in a retail store and made in New England.

There are no compositions to write. There are no puzzles to be solved. No coupons to fill out. No labels to collect. All you are asked to do is "use your eyes" and try your skill at a little very easy reporting.

Retail Merchants: Display the New England Products which you have. Be prepared to answer the questions given above. Help your friends and customers to be among the winners!

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Does the government know how to make ships attractive to passengers?

A number of friends cautioned me against going to Europe on any government-operated ship, saying that I would find this, that and the next thing very unsatisfactory.

Well, I have traveled the seas a good deal and have crossed and recrossed the Atlantic many times, and, in my judgment, nobody need hesitate to use these government-owned ships.

All problems have not been overcome by any means. Native-born Americans do not take kindly to the more humble tasks on board a ship. As one officer of thirty years' experience complained to me, "The young American born in this country wants to start in near the top. He doesn't like the idea of having to wash decks or dishes. Not many of them have the temperament to make good waiters or stewards. They want to be heads of departments or officers right away. We have to employ a great many foreign-born."

Some of the employes give the impression that they want you to understand they are quite as good as any passenger. And they don't all have the polish of the foreign waiters and stewards one usually finds on French, British and German lines.

Also, there was much complaint on the Leviathan over the delay and confusion in allotting seats in the dining room. True, the ship was carrying a record-breaking number of passengers, but it was painfully apparent that something was wrong in this particular department.

General Manager Rossbottom, however, is working most energetically to improve the whole service, and American citizens have reason to be proud of the progress already made. Running a steamship line is not child's-play. Running a steamship line under United States laws is a particularly difficult task, especially in the matter of personnel.

But it is of the most far-reaching importance that America raise and train men to go down to the sea in ships. The very safety of the nation depends upon our doing this.

It will be interesting to try to find out just what percentage of the men employed by ships flying the Stars and Stripes are native-born Americans, what percentage are naturalized citizens and what percentage are not citizens.

* * *

When the Leviathan was first put into passenger service under the Stars and Stripes much was made of the fact that there was a Ritz-Carlton restaurant on board for the fastidious. So thoroughly satisfactory in every respect was the food served by the government, however, that the Ritz-Carlton restaurant has gone out of business.

* *

The most unpleasant part of the trip, everyone agreed, was from the time quarantine was reached until the baggage was finally released by the customs inspectors. In our case this took from sunrise until after three o'clock in the afternoon.

Boston Notes

ARLINGTON MILLS declared regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share, payable October 1 to stock of record September 11.

AT ANNUAL meeting of American Agricultural Chemical Company directors were re-elected.

MILL OF Fabyan Woolen at Medway, which has been in operation day and night for more than two years, will be operated three days and three nights a week beginning Monday.

LANCASTER MILLS, Clinton, closed for a month, will resume operations Monday on three-day week basis.

MAGMA COPPER has struck a new shoot of ore in crosscut from winze on east end of 1200-foot level.

STOCK PRICES RUN HIGHER

In trading on the New York Stock Exchange, while oils were offered in rather free supply as the result of a sharp reduction in gasoline prices by Standard Oil of Indiana and rumors of further crude cuts, the general list shook off early heaviness and pointed upward.

Talk of dividend inauguration sent both Gimbel Brothers issues to new highs, the common advancing 2 points, while General Baking was marked up 4½ on reports of its merger with other bakeries.

Pool operations were again in evidence, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Davison Chemical, Wells Fargo, Moon Motors, Chicago Yellow Cab, Union Bag & Paper, Southern Pacific, Rock Island and Lackawanna moving up 1 to 2 points and Kelly Springfield preferred 3½.

A drop of 6 points in Nash motors was associated with the recent liquidation of Lafayette Motors in which the Nash Company suffered a heavy loss. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

In Boston dealings, Pacific Mills opened at 80, then dropped quickly on a rather small volume of selling to 75. Rutland preferred started at 50, then stepped up 2 points.

INVESTMENT IN SUMMER COTTAGES

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

There are some odd angles to the real estate field, and they are not all speculative.

One of our biggest Boston builders and contractors, who has been putting up apartment houses, has switched to a new field.

He has faith in New England's prosperity and has decided to devote himself henceforth to building Summer cottages within commuting distance of Boston.

"I don't care about selling them," he tells me. "I will build for investment."

One builder declares he can put up for about $1,500, all told, a Summer cottage that will rent readily for $200 a season, which surely makes a pretty good return.

* * *

One of Boston's biggest bear operators, who accumulates his "short lines" on investment fundamentals, decided American Woolen could not continue to earn its common dividend unless there was improvement in its textile line, so he sold a block of Woolen short and placed a stop loss order that was right at the recent top before its spectacular drop as a result of dividend passing. He lost his short stock and also the easy profit that, without it, would have been his.

* * *

Much enthusiasm has been generated among the more speculative-minded by the really sensational advances that have occurred in the prices of many of our important farm crops. There can be little doubt but that the farmers of this country are, and for some time probably will continue to be in an improved financial condition. Current reviews state that, in round figures the price of wheat has advanced 40 per cent. from the year's low, with rye following, and the price of corn 70 per cent., with meat product prices following. The Agricultural Publishers' Association, in a special bulletin, estimates that farm products have made the following impressive gains:

Corn	$880,000,000	Cotton	$200,000,000
Oats	285,000,000	Rye	16,000,000
Wheat	260,000,000	Hogs	100,000,000

How much of this wealth is reaching, and remaining on the farm, would be difficult to say, but it is reported that very large quantities of farm products are arriving on the markets. Some 14,000 cars of wheat were put on the Kansas City market in July, breaking all previous records.

To date, the apparent net result of this unlooked for prosperity has been the liquidation of farmers' obligations to banks, the release of an important volume of "frozen credits," and a certain natural enhancement of farm land values.

The orgy of farm spending freely predicted in certain quarters has not yet appeared, but it would seem that the expectation of an early return of better business generally in this country, inspired by the outlook for more healthy conditions on the farm, is fairly justified.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates the farmers' purchasing power, as of June, to have been 79 per cent. of the 1913 average, the highest since 1920.

and Insured

Every used car advertised on this page has undergone a rigid inspection. The Boston American employs expert mechanics to make these tests.

Only an "INSPECTED" car can receive the blue certificate of inspection. It is your protection and safeguard.

If you do not see the blue Certificate of Inspection on the windshield of the car you want to buy, ask the dealer to have an inspection made. Or, telephone the Boston American, Liberty 4000. No charge nor obligation.

Cars which pass our inspection are, of course, the good cars. Thus, the list below contains the pick of the USED CAR market, in Boston. All types of cars, at all prices, and all inspected.

The Boston American will help you select a Used Car Bargain. Write for free pamphlet explaining the Used Car Plan in detail.

All Fools' Day for the Pacifists, Defense Day for Americans

It takes all kinds of people to make a world—and all kinds of delusions to make a pacifist.

For weeks this land has rung with the mother goose twaddle of those who deplore the proper observance of Defense Day. To them any suggestion of national defense is a ruthless irritation in a lamb-like world.

These devotees of imaginary international speech seem to fear nothing but the land which protects them.

They see no cause for apprehension though France builds an air force which dominates the sky; they find no basis for alarm in Great Britain's construction of monster submarines and dreadnoughts of the air; they are undisturbed though Japan expands her force above the clouds and borrows expert air pilots from France and expert submarine operators from Germany.

In all these steel facts, all these bombs, all these exterminating gases, pacifists find only the simple diet of the dove.

But let Uncle Sam—long suffering Uncle Sam—long-lending Uncle Sam—the Santa Claus of all mankind—merely take out the blue prints of his national defense and look them over, and the teeth of these timid darlings chatter from sea to sea.

If they so dread the militarism of unarmed America, these anaemic children of the Milky Way should take their dream-shocked nerves to lullaby-singing Britain, France or Japan.

Their terror rises only before the possibility that the Flag which shelters them might be able to defend itself—by the dread that America might possibly take counsel of the sad stupidity of all her wars—one in every generation in our 148 years as a nation.

These hysterical coloraturas had no word of warning when we shamefully neglected our sky frontier—no word of censure for the inexplicable failure of our government to build airplanes with the six hundred million dollars which Congress voted for airplanes.

It was all spent and nearly all wasted because we had not learned how to make planes.

These Satin Gizzards uttered no protest when we submitted to Great Britain's demand that we abandon the elevation of our naval guns and supinely accepted hopeless inferiority on the sea.

They are immune from all uneasiness even now when Japan defies Great Britain's attitude, elevates the guns on Japanese men-of-war and makes what should be our first line of defense, our first target for foreign foes.

The great majority of these pacifists are merely publicity prima donnas; they demand the limelight even at the hideous cost of the repetition of that stupidity which in all our wars has sent Americans forth to fight, poorly armed and poorly trained.

The life of one private soldier, dead on the slippery elm altar of unpreparedness, is worth more than this whole pale-faced choir of pacifism.

Among these vociferous advocates of American feebleness we do not find those who fought for Old Glory; we search their lavender-scented ranks in vain for empty sleeves.

These ridiculous jubilee singers serenade armed nations, heeding not the iron laughter of the Prepared.

The number of those who counsel the systematic stagnation of our national spirit, whether for purposes of publicity or for fancied political advantage, merely proves that there is no race suicide among American frauds.

We contemplate no aggression; we do not even contemplate the collection of the interest on debts due us from abroad—and all the world knows it.

The nations will see in our celebration of Defense Day merely a token that we have not yet completely lapsed into the abysmal indifference which followed all our other wars.

The most aggressive inference the world could possibly gather would be that it might not be altogether a holiday for any foreign nation to attack us.

Let us dismiss with scorn the hallelujah hysterics of this milk-eyed pacifist ballet which magnifies a national rollcall into a world-wide menace.

Let us heed the far-off warning of the farewell address of the Father of his Country and guarantee our peace by a demonstrated willingness to defend it.

All Fools' Day belongs to the pacifist, but Defense Day belongs to the American.

"The army and navy forever.
"Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue."

THE TRUNK STRAP

By FITZWILLIAM WEST

A GOOD soul who went about on errands of mercy, happened one day to take dinner with a young farmer in her neighborhood, and seven children, aged from ten upward.

When they had seated themselves at the table the old lady, who was the guest, looked about the room and, in doing so observed a trunk strap hanging over the fireplace.

"These youngsters are all yours?" she asked.

"Oh, no," said the farmer. "They are not my children, they are all my brothers and sisters. You see I am the biggest in the family and so I have to sort of look out for them till they learn how to behave themselves."

"I see you have a very wicked trunk strap hanging over the fireplace!"

"Oh yeah? You noticed that, did you? Well, the kids, they notice it, too. Always keep it hangin' there where they can notice it."

"That is terrible," said the kindly old lady. "How can you have the heart to punish your brothers and sisters with that trunk strap?"

"Why, madam, I don't never punish them kids none. I love them all. I don't have to punish them."

"Then why have that murderous trunkstrap hanging in plain sight?"

"Well, that's why I don't have to punish 'em. You see, ma'am, it's like this. The young ones have got quite a lot of respect for me because I am their big brother. But I thought I would have this respect made just a little bit stronger by hanging the trunk strap where they can all see it.

"They get quite a lot of hell in 'em once in a while and they think they can take advantage of me, but when they take a look at that strap, they change their minds."

"You should be ashamed to have such a thing around," chided the old lady.

"I guess not, ma'am," replied the farmer. "You see, I know them young brothers and sisters of mine. I know 'em like a book."

"How often do you inflict corporal punishment on the poor dears?" asked the old lady.

"Well, as I said before," replied the big brother, "I haven't taken that strap down off'n the hook since I put it up there. I haven't had no occasion to. Just having it hanging there handy is enough."

Which is a rough but timely little Defense Day sermon, we shouldn't wonder.

VALOROUSLY IN DEFENSE

By S. E. KISER

THE prudent, when the days are fair
And only gentle breezes blow,
Continue bravely to prepare
For clouds that may be dark and low.

The captain of the ship may see
No signs of storms to spoil the day,
But how unworthy he would be
To let the lifeboats drift away.

The banker's vaults are strongly barred,
His watchmen watch, and signals flash,
He does not wait to see his guard
Till robbers come to get his cash.

The man who keeps himself in trim,
His muscles strong, his sinews right,
Need not, when others jostle him,
Be put to quick and shameful flight.

The foolish only are content
When danger haunts a distant trail
To let their days be idly spent,
To see themselves grow fat and stale.

Where men to weakness grow resigned
Repose can never linger long;
Fate always seems to be inclined
To show her favors to the strong.

So let the banners be unfurled,
And sound the call of common sense,
Not in defiance of the world,
But valourously in defense!

Would Work for Aid

Helping Hand Editor:

For the sake of my boy two and a girl four, I am asking if it is possible for someone to help me a little. My husband deserted me in Florida, from which place I returned last Friday. Now my trunks are on the wharf and there is $3.32 due on them besides the storage money, which is now 60 cents. I have no place for my babies or myself to stay, as the people I am with are moving. There is not enough to eat in the house. I am nearly desperate. Would it be possible through your wonderful Helping Hand for me to be able to get my trunks before any more storage will be charged and also a place for us to stay until I can hear from my mother in California? I would be very grateful for such help and would be willing to work in return.

MRS. L. R.

Mother of Two

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of two small children and am about to become a mother again. If there is a kind reader who has some old sheets and pillow cases that they could give me, I would be so glad to get them. My husband is not working steady. Also I hope some kind reader has some things for my little girls, 4 and 3 years old.

Mrs. G. W.

Glad of Offer

Helping Hand Editor:

Please send me the address of some mother who can use clothing for girls between the ages of 3 and 7.

Mrs. H. MacD.

Thank you. Mrs L., mother of five girls, two of whom are the ages you mention, will be glad to get what you have to offer.

Clothes for Baby

Helping Hand Editor:

I would like to thank the people in Dorchester for the wonderful things they sent me. It was a great help to me and I certainly appreciate it.

If not asking too much now, I would like to get some clothes for my thirteen-year-old boy. He went on an outing recently with some other boys and while in bathing lost all his clothes. If some kind reader could help me get him some pants and shoes, size 3½, I would be very grateful. My husband only works two days a week.

L. J. F.

Needs Clothes Badly

Helping Hand Editor:

I am seventy-five years old and suffer from rheumatism so that I can hardly walk and cannot stand up long. I am living with a cousin who is also poor but can work a little. I am badly in need of both outside and under clothing, size 40, shoes 8½ or 9 and stockings. Any old thing will do to keep me warm this Winter.

Charles W.

Home for Girl

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a good home to offer a girl around 13 or over in return for light duties. I am writing to your paper because you are in touch with poor people who perhaps have a young girl who would be glad of a good home in the country and a chance to go to school. I would enjoy giving to a poor girl who really needs it. That is why I am writing your Helping Hand. Yo do so much good.

MRS. E. C.

Wants Sewing

Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if some of your kind readers could tell me where I could get some home work to do? Sewing or embroidering would be best. It would be a great help, as things are pretty well behind with us.

MRS. P. B.

Alone in World

Helping Hand Editor:

We were left alone in the world without a father. There are seven of us and we need clothes and blankets for the Winter. We would be very thankful to anyone if they could help us out. Our ages are, girls 4, 8, 12, 15; boys 16, 17 and 7.

MOULTON GETS TO THINKING WHICH IS A BAD HABIT

By ROY K. MOULTON

WHEN the Prince sat down in the White House and et a meal o' vittles with Cal the other day I got to thinking, which is universally admitted to be a despicable habit these days.

One man who got thinking too much on what is the matter with the world is now posing out on the lawn at Central Islip, with his right hand tucked in his coat, and claims to be Napoleon Bonaparte.

Another one thought he would raid a silk loft and make a fortune, and now he is making little ones out of big ones at the well-known Chateau le Double Sing.

Still and all, a person is strongly tempted to think once in a while. Probably thinking is about all you can do nowadays without breaking some law.

What I was thinking about was this, and of course it is very silly and what-not. I was thinking what if some foreign prince should be eating all his meals there in the White House, not Wales in particular, but any prince, even a Jap.

A foreign prince sitting in the White House and sending home to his pa reports on his governorship of this vassal State would not be so good, would it?—all Bryan pacifism to the contrary notwithstanding.

Having nothing else to do, I kept on thinking for a while and gradually got around to Defense Day, which is a very serious thing and liable to scare the Fiji Islands or some other foreign power into an attack on us.

Defense Day is today, and the great war which it will precipitate will follow right on its heels, so the boys, according to the milk-white flaggers and parlor pinks, may just as well stay in camp and get ready to march to the front.

The pacifists, very much excited over Defense Day, have been industriously rolling those pale pills for pink people and sending them hither and yon through the mails.

Uncle Sam ain't aimin' to git hoss-tile at all on Defense Day. All he is going to do is to get the old musket out and look it over and see if it works good enough to keep an American President in the White House.

Nothing much to worry about if you have any red corpuscles in your blood at all, is there now, honest Injun, hope to croak?

I often wonder what sort of jellyfish Americans these pacifists think the majority of us are.

Although aggression is not an American attribute, neither is helplessness.

Which reminds of the incident of the old-maid school teacher back in the seventies who boarded the stage coach at Pierre, N. D., for a trip into the black hills.

The driver and the guard mounted the box and both were heavily armed.

"This is terrible!" screamed the solitary passenger; "you men both carry guns. Are you going to murder somebody?"

"Ma'am," said the driver, "we ain't aimin' to let these guns go off a-tall. Nothing is farther from our thoughts. We do not intend to shoot nobody up and we will travel right along peaceful like. But there is about $40,000 in greenbacks in that iron box under the seat. Greenbacks is mighty popular out here in the West, where they are scarce, and if anybody tries to stop this stage and get them greenbacks all I got to say is that they are goin' to have the gosh-daredest fight they ever see. That's all, ma'am. Sit quiet, don't worry, and we'll git a-goin'."

TODAY'S THE DAY

By "BUGS" BAER

PACIFISM is that state of ambition between jelly and marmalade.

You are too weak to solidify and just strong enough to quiver.

Then somebody comes along and spreads you on his bread.

Pacifists are people who were left in their cradle too long.

No nation ever spread America on its bread and no nation is ever going to use us for butter.

Pacifists object to defense because they believe that it will make other countries mad at us. They think that guns and soldiers will start wars.

Children will play with toys if they have them. If they haven't got toys, they will play with matches.

Armies and navies are big toys, but nations are not children.

This may not be logic, but why waste logic on pacifists?

World peace may come some day when farmers milk lions and tigers.

There are always going to be wars and other international amusements.

If America relied on pacifists talking instead of defense, we would be using parrots for our national birds instead of eagles.

Were just as ready as porcupines which have quills, but never throw them at anybody.

It's all right to turn your other cheek when you get slapped. But don't forget that your opponent has also got two cheeks.

Today is National Defense Day. There may be many parades of citizens who will be getting plenty of air into their lungs where it belongs and not into their skulls where pacifists seem to get theirs.

LOYALTY TO THE COUNTRY MUST BE PARAMOUNT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT is a question whether partisanship is not like the breaking up of the atom. There is no stopping it. And there is developed inside of parties the same spirit that makes the party itself.

People are usually attached to parties from personal reasons as well as traditional and customary ones. No one is attached to a party by his intelligence, for a little sound thinking would be quite as apt to show him that he should revolt from his party as often as he clings to it.

It has been said of Protestantism that, being the spirit of revolt, it is in danger of constant schism and that it is very difficult for a body of Protestants to hold together. Since they began upon the principle of the resistance to authority it is very difficult to curb that principle when it is once established.

We therefore see Protestantism breaking up into an infinite number of sects and divisions, once it has broken away from the mother church.

In the same way, we see that parties find that it is increasingly difficult to hold their people together once they admit that loyalty to party is a greater thing than loyalty to the country itself.

It is a question whether Democrats hate Republicans worse than they hate other Democrats, and Republicans hate Democrats worse than they hate other Republicans.

It has been well said that we hate no one so much as our neighbor.

The party system is founded upon discontent and dissatisfaction. It is always a more telling argument when we speak of the defectiveness of our opposing party than of the merits of our own, and it is always easy to find defects in anything. Campaign literature and oratory, therefore, may be depended upon more to view with alarm what the other party does and has done than to point with pride to one's own party record.

Doubtless the party system will be cured by its own inherent viciousness. It will destroy itself by its own principles.
